The Nature Of Belief The Internal Realization Of External Reality:

The Nature of Belief Robert Spann, 2006 Our conception of reality is an internal model in our minds This model is a mental conception that only approximates true actuality growing further in all probability from what reality actually is as we proceed up a hierarchy of levels from that of our daily lives through levels of greater abstraction such as legal and ethical reality At the peak of this model lies the greatest uncertainty in which reality is completely unknown and can only be surmised by philosophical and theological understanding The fundamental beliefs of our ultimate existence at the peak of this model of reality are examined using contrasting philosophic beliefs as expressed in Western and Eastern thought through Christian and Buddhist philosophies Conceptions of the Western idea of a Supreme Guiding Force are summarized In true reality God may be ineffable Yet we as individuals need to interact with a personal conception of this deity This meaningful personal belief is explored Religious concepts that cannot be proven are examined from a scientific point of view For instance Quantum Mechanics is used to suggest the continuation of our personal identities beyond death and Evolution is used to indicate God's possible approach to achieving His final objective in the creation of the universe

On Realizing There is Only the Virtual Nature of Consciousness Peter Lunde Johnson, 2019-06-18 A translation of the definitive discourse on the nature of the mind and its spiritual restoration by Xuanzang in accordance with the teachings of the Buddhist School on Engaged Meditation Yogacara Translated into clear English and organized in an outline form to make it approachable by anyone this unique work also provides key terms in Sanskrit and Chinese These terms have been translated into English in ways that offer a fresh and thought provoking perspective on their originally intended meaning rather than merely repeating past conventions The introduction footnoting and index provide a comprehensive background on Buddhist concepts Buddhist schools of thought and Buddhist history relevant to the translation This groundbreaking work provides a unique opportunity for those interested in Buddhism to cut through its seemingly complex array of terms and concepts and make sense of its profound explanation of the human condition

Exploratory Data Analysis Using Fisher Information Roy Frieden, Robert A. Gatenby, 2010-05-27 Sustainability is often used in a qualitative sense However there is at present a great need to quantitatively measure and monitor its many qualitative aspects in real systems Real systems are regarded as sustainable if they can maintain their current desirable productivity and character without creating unfavorable conditions elsewhere or in the future 1 4 Sustainability therefore incorporates both concern for the future of the current system temporal sustainability and concern about the degree to which some areas and cultures of the planet are improved at the expense of other areas and cultures spatial sustainability That is sustainability is to hold over both space and time Sustainability encompasses many disciplines For example economic systems are not sustainable if they degrade their natural resource base and impoverish some sectors of the human population 5 6 Indices are needed that will measure sustainability through time and over space at several scales These indices must also have the ability to aggregate the many disciplinary facets of sustainability often incorporated through a large number of environmental social and economic variables Such a multidisciplinary dynamic system can be regarded as sustainable if it maintains a desirable steady state or regime including fluctuations that are desirable such as those that respond to natural disturbances 8

The Nature of Suffering and the Goals of Medicine Eric J. Cassell Clinical Professor of Public Health Cornell University Medical College, 1991-10-03 The Nature of Suffering underscores the change that is taking place in medicine from a basic concern with disease to a greater focus on the sick person Cassell centers his discussion on the problem of suffering because he says its recognition and relief are a test of the adequacy of any system of medicine He describes what suffering is and its relationship to the sick person bodies do not suffer people do An exclusive concern with scientific knowledge of the body and disease therefore impedes an understanding of suffering and diminishes the care of the suffering patient The growing criticism that medicine is not sufficiently humanistic does not go deep enough to provide a basis for a new understanding of medicine New concepts in medicine must have their basis in its history and in the development of ideas about disease and treatment Cassell uses many stories about patients to demonstrate that despite the current dominance of science and technology there can be no diagnosis search for the cause of the patient's disease prognostication or treatment without consideration of the individual sick person Recent trends in medicine and society Cassell believes show that it is time for the sick person to be not merely an important concern for physicians but the central focus of medicine He addresses the exciting problems involved in such a shift In this new medicine doctors would have to know the person as well as they know the disease What are persons however and how are doctors to comprehend them The kinds of knowledge involved are varied including values and aesthetics as well as science In the process of knowing the experience of patient and doctor move to center stage He believes that the exploration of the person will engage medicine in the 21st century just as understanding the body has occupied the last hundred years
