Evaluation of carcass and meat quality in ruminants C. Lazzaroni, S. Gigli, D. Gabina, 2023-08-28 Livestock production systems will only be sustained in the long term if their products continue to meet the demand of consumers The quality of ruminant carcasses meat and meat products is of predominant importance in a competitive market where consumers tend to have a preconceived idea about the criteria that define meat quality such as flavour tenderness juiciness smell colour and texture The carcass evaluation could be interesting as a precocious classification of the final quality of meat coming from each carcass Today the quality characteristics of the meat must be different according to its utilisation supermarket butcher catering refectory etc and so it is very important to choose very early the final destination of the carcass Obviously the carcass classification must correlate with meat quality characteristics required by final consumer Other important factors that have to be taken into account in order to maintain a demand for ruminant meat are safety and traceability This book reviews the historical and recent developments for carcass evaluation and grading for meat quality assessment in beef and sheep It places special emphasis on new concepts and approaches to define carcass and meat quality and on the use of modern technologies for composition and quality evaluation A range of technologies are presented such as ultrasounds and colour reflectance X ray computerised tomography spectral and thermal imaging image analysis and NIRS The use of phenotypic markers such as the plasma hormones and genetic markers to predict carcass composition and meat quality are also presented

De Boodt, Michael H.B. Hayes, Adrien Herbillon, 2013-11-21 S Henin Versailles France It was a pleasure for me to take part in the NATO Advanced Study Workshop for studies of Soil Colloids and their Associations in Soil Aggregates The meeting provided me with a welcome opportunity to renew acquaintances with respected colleagues in the various fields of Soil Science to listen to their presentations and be involved in discussions which were at the frontiers of the science which deals with the structures and the associations of the soil colloidal constituents In my view the rapid advances in Soil Science and the great benefits to agriculture from these have their origins in the emerging understanding of the structures and the associations of the different soil colloids It is clear that much research is still needed before the molecular details of the most important of the structures and of the interactions are fully understood The associations between the soil colloids and the manner in which they bind to or hold the other constituents of soils in aggregates is fundamental to soil fertility and the Modern intensive agriculture leads to the degradation of soil structure subsequent loss through erosion of a resource that is vital for the production of food This degradation is considered to result primarily from the biological oxidation of the indigenous soil organic matter and from the failure to return to the soil sufficient organic residues to compensate for such losses
