

Résumé Tips for Stay-at-Home Parents

Validate Volunteer Work:

Don't shortchange yourself! Whether or not you were paid to do something doesn't negate the fact that now it's part of your skillset.

1

Highlight Transferable Skills:

When presenting your strengths, identify what you bring to the table that will benefit a future employer.

Show Continuing Education:

Think broadly to give yourself credit for staying up to date. Include informal efforts such as reading trade journals and attending events held by professional associations.

3

Value Leadership Ability:

It may not have come with a VP title, but chairing the school's largest annual fundraising event or managing the spring kick-off event for the town athletic association leverages and taps into similar strengths.

Identify New Strengths:

Yes, you volunteered "for the children," but in the process you developed or refined skills in selling, marketing, negotiating, branding, customer relations, organization, leadership, and time management.

The Politics of Parental Leave Policies Sheila B. Kamerman, Peter Moss, 2011 This title covers 15 countries in Europe and beyond bringing together leading academic experts to provide a unique insight into the past present and future state of this key policy area Starting in Our Own Backyards Ann Bookman, 2004-06-01 Containing interviews with more than 100 middle class working parents in the Boston area Bookman vividly illustrates the inherent conflicts faced by today's two working parent families and the often unfortunate consequences for the community In an important departure from the ongoing debate she offers a new paradigm for the relationship between paid and unpaid work that could invigorate both family life and the quality of civil society Glass Ceilings and 100-Hour Couples Karine S. Moe, Dianna J. Shandy, 2010-02-25 When significant numbers of college educated American women began in the early twenty first century to leave paid work to become stay at home mothers an emotionally charged national debate erupted Karine Moe and Dianna Shandy a professional economist and an anthropologist respectively decided to step back from the sometimes overheated rhetoric around the so called mommy wars They wondered what really inspired women to opt out and they wanted to gauge the phenomenon's genuine repercussions Glass Ceilings and 100 Hour Couples is the fruit of their investigation a rigorous accessible and sympathetic reckoning with this hot button issue in contemporary life Drawing on hundreds of interviews from around the country original survey research and national labor force data Moe and Shandy refocus the discussion of women who opt out from one where they are the object of scrutiny to one where their aspirations and struggles tell us about the far broader swath of American women who continue to juggle paid work and family Moe and Shandy examine the many pressures that influence a woman's decision to resign, reduce or reorient her career. These include the mismatch between child care options and workplace demands, the fact that these women married men with demanding careers, the professionalization of stay-at-home motherhood and broad failures in public policy. But Moe and Shandy are equally attentive to the resilience of women in the face of life decisions that might otherwise threaten their sense of self-worth. Moe and Shandy find, for instance, that women who have downsized their careers stress the value of social networks of running with a pack of smart women who've also chosen to emphasize motherhood over paid work. Social Class in Contemporary Japan Hiroshi Ishida, David H. Slater, 2009-10-16 Through examination of contemporary Japanese society, this book demonstrates that the analysis of class formation is fundamental for a clear understanding of institutions and collective identity such as family, school, work, gender, and ethnicity. Immigration Policy and Immigrant Families Jennifer Van Hook, Valarie King, 2024-09-13 This book examines how immigration law impacts U.S. immigrant families. It addresses how admission and border policies shape family formation and contribute to prolonged family separation; how immigration enforcement affects parenting practices; and how immigrants' unique challenges spill over to influence broader kinship support networks. Chapters describe family reunification and separation policies, return migration and binational family life, how young immigrants reconnect with family abroad and navigate romantic relationships in the United States, parents' engagement with surveilling actors and institutions, the impact of immigration policy on parenting including during the pandemic, the health and well-being of DACA (Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals) eligible adults and their children, aging and family dynamics among Asian immigrant families, and the impact of immigrant legal status across generations. Finally, the volume offers recommendations for family researchers on ways to advance our understanding of the short and longer-term effects of immigration law and policies on the formation, structure, and functioning of immigrant families. Key areas of coverage include: Immigrant laws and policies that shape the formation and separation of immigrant families; Immigrant parenting in the context of immigration enforcement; Effects of DACA and other immigrant policies on child and adult health and well-being; Long-term impacts of immigration policy over time and across generations; Opportunities for family research to better understand how immigration policies and practices shape families, parenting, and child health and well-being. Immigration Policy and Immigrant Families is a must-have resource for researchers, professors, and graduate students, as well as clinicians, therapists, and other professionals in developmental psychology, family studies, sociology, and such interrelated disciplines as demography, social work, prevention science, public health, educational policy, political science, and economics. Producing Women Michele White, 2015-03-02 Producing Women examines the ways femininity is produced through new media. Michele White considers how women are constructed, produce themselves as subjects, form vital production cultures on sites like Etsy, and deploy technological processes to reshape their identities and digital characteristics. She studies the means through which women market traditional female roles are viewed and produce and restructure their gendered raced eroticized and sexual identities Incorporating a range of examples across numerous forms of media including trash the dress wedding photography Internet how to instructions about zombie walk brides nail polish blogging DIY crafting and reborn doll production Producing Women elucidates women's production cultures online and the ways that individuals can critically study and engage with these practices
