Strategy of the Viral Genome G. E. W. Wolstenholme, Maeve O'Connor, 2009-09-16 The Novartis Foundation Series is a popular collection of the proceedings from Novartis Foundation Symposia in which groups of leading scientists from a range of topics across biology chemistry and medicine assembled to present papers and discuss results The Novartis Foundation originally known as the Ciba Foundation is well known to scientists and clinicians around the world The National Union Catalogs, 1963- ,1964 National Union Catalog ,1968 Includes entries for maps and atlases Genes, Enzymes, and Populations Adrian Srb, 2012-12-06 The present volume includes the large majority of papers given at the symposium entitled Fundamental Approaches to Plant and Animal Improvement held at Cali Colombia in November 1972 The primary focal points were on various genetic mechanisms including gene action and mutation the development of phenotypic attributes and on evolution including that controlled by man for agricultural purposes In fact very little referring in any particular way to animal improvement was included while a great deal of attention was paid to higher plants and to microorganisms On the other hand both the population genetics of insects and insect control were considered Thus Genes Enzymes and Populations the title given to this published work seems to me to represent somewhat more fairly the contents than does the original symposium title Given the intent of the symposium which is expressed in the original title the published record cannot be expected to be a neatly packaged presentation of some highly defined subject matter Indeed the diverse subjects represent some but by no means all of the varied and dynamic scientific activities that need to be components in the improvement and production of agriculturally Significant plants at a time when world populations are rapidly increasing and shortages of food occurring In any case the organizers of the symposium wisely decided that considerations of environment as well as of genetics should be introduced into the thinking of the group and that physiology and molecular biology could not be ignored
