Rock Fracture, 1972 Creep, Viscoelasticity, and Creep Fracture in Solids John Gittus, 1975 Fracture of Rock, 1965 Failure Criteria in Fibre-Reinforced-Polymer Composites M. Hinton, P D Soden, Abdul-Salam Kaddour, 2004-08-27

Fiber reinforced polymer composites are an extremely broad and versatile class of material. Their high strength coupled with lightweight leads to their use wherever structural efficiency is at a premium. Applications can be found in aircraft, process plants, sporting goods, and military equipment. However, they are heterogeneous in construction and anisotropic, which makes making strength prediction extremely difficult, especially compared to that of a metal. This book brings together the results of a 12-year worldwide failure exercise encompassing 19 theories in a single volume. Each contributor describes their own theory and employs it to solve 14 challenging problems. The accuracy of predictions and the performance of the theories are assessed, and recommendations made on the uses of the theories in engineering design. All the necessary information is provided for the methodology to be readily employed for validating and benchmarking new theories as they emerge. Brings together 19 failure theories with many application examples. Compares the leading failure theories with one another and with experimental data. Failure to apply these theories could result in potentially unsafe designs or over design.

The Materiality and Spatiality of Death, Burial and Commemoration Christoph Klaus Streb, Thomas Kolnberger, 2021-09-28

Death, dying, and burial produce artefacts and occur in spatial contexts. The interplay between such materiality and the bereaved who commemorate the dead yields interpretations and creates meanings that can change over time. Materiality is more than simple matter, void of meaning or relevance. The apparent inanimate has meaning. It is charged with significance, has symbolic and interpretative value, perhaps a form of selfhood which originates from the interaction with the animate. In our case, gravestones, bodily remains, and the spatial order of the cemetery are explored for their material agency and relational constellations with human perceptions and actions. Consciously and unconsciously, by interacting with such materiality, one is creating meaning, while materiality retroactively provides a form of agency. Spatiality provides more than a mere context; it permits and shapes such interaction. Thus, artefacts, mementos, and memorials are exteriorised, materialised, and spatialized forms of human activity; they can be understood as cultural forms, the function of which is to sustain social life. However, they are also the medium through which values, ideas, and criteria of social distinction are reproduced, legitimised, or transformed. This book will explore this interplay by going beyond the consideration of simple grave artefacts on the one hand and graveyards as a space on the other hand to examine the specific interrelationships between materiality, spatiality, the living, and the dead. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal Mortality.

been increasingly incorporated into live theater and dance and new forms of interactive performance have emerged in participatory installations on CD ROM and on the Web In Digital Performance Steve Dixon traces the evolution of these practices presents detailed accounts of key practitioners and performances and analyzes the theoretical artistic and technological contexts of this form of new media art Dixon finds precursors to today's digital performances in past forms of theatrical technology that range from the deus ex machina of classical Greek drama to Wagner's Gesamtkunstwerk concept of the total artwork and draws parallels between contemporary work and the theories and practices of Constructivism Dada Surrealism Expressionism Futurism and multimedia pioneers of the twentieth century For a theoretical perspective on digital performance Dixon draws on the work of Philip Auslander Walter Benjamin Roland Barthes Jean Baudrillard and others To document and analyze contemporary digital performance practice Dixon considers changes in the representation of the body space and time He considers virtual bodies avatars and digital doubles as well as performances by artists including Stelarc Robert Lepage Merce Cunningham Laurie Anderson Blast Theory and Eduardo Kac He investigates new media's novel approaches to creating theatrical spectacle including virtual reality and robot performance work telematic performances in which remote locations are linked in real time Webcams and online drama communities and considers the extratemporal illusion created by some technological theater works Finally he defines categories of interactivity from navigational to participatory and collaborative Dixon challenges dominant theoretical approaches to digital performance including what he calls postmodernism's denial of the new and offers a series of boldly original arguments in their place

Progress in Nitrogen Ceramics F.L. Riley, 2012-12-06 The first NATO Advanced Study Institute on Nitrogen Ceramics held in 1976 at Canterbury came at a particularly significant moment in the development of this subject The five year period 1971 75 had been an especially fruitful one in very many respects for work in the areas of covalent materials in general and of the nitrides in particular The Institute was therefore able to capture fully the spirit of excitement and adventure engendered by the outputs of numerous national research programmes as well as those of many smaller research groups concerning ceramics potentially suitable for applications in a high temperature engineering context It reflected accurately the state of knowledge with respect to the basic science the powder technology and the properties of materials based on silicon nitride and associated systems The Proceedings of the Institute thus provided a good record for workers already in the field and a useful textbook for newcomers to the subject of nitrogen ceramics The Canterbury Advanced Study Institute had a valuable educational and social function in bringing together for two weeks a large proportion of those workers most closely involved at that time with the nitrogen ceramics The atmosphere of this meeting providing both intensive discussions and informal contacts made a lasting impression on the participants and inevitably the question was raised of whether and when a second Advanced Study Institute might be held on this subject

Conférence Internationale sur les pressions de terrains et le soutènement dans les chantiers d'exploitation : Liège, du 24 au 28 avril 1951 ,1951 Cell Fusion A.E. Sowers, 2013-11-11 Over the last decade the volume Membrane Fusion edited by Poste and Nicholson has probably served as one of the major sources of review information on fusion in membrane systems Since its publication much new information has been collected New methods of inducing fusion have been invented or discovered and new applications for fusion have been found The need for an up to date monograph that covers and integrates these subjects reviews established material and rationalizes and integrates the old and the new is thus obvious This book is the product of efforts to meet this need Most of the current work in the field of membrane fusion takes place within the context of intact or modified cells Hence this book emphasizes the plasma membrane Each chapter is either a review a report or a short historical overview depending respectively on whether the subject is large in scope and has a long history or the subject is in such an early stage of development that most of what is known is still in the hands of a relatively small number of investigators and is best covered in report form Official Gazette of the United States Patent and Trademark Office ,1991
