Nepal's 2072 federal constitution: Implications for the governance of the agricultural sector Kyle, Jordan, Resnick, Danielle, 2016-12-22 In this paper we explore the implications of Nepal's new federal Constitution passed in September 2015 for governance of the agricultural sector Agriculture is the backbone of the Nepali economy providing a livelihood for approximately two thirds of the population contributing one third of the country's GDP and constituting more than half of the country's exports In transitioning from a unitary to a federal republic with greater authority and autonomy granted to subnational units of government it is of paramount importance to ensure that the agricultural sector is guided by coordinated planning retains sufficient human capacity and receives adequate fiscal resources These considerations are particularly important given that the governance of Nepal's agricultural sector already suffers from poor coordination low human resources capacity and inadequate financial resources Addressing these issues may become more difficult under a federal structure This paper begins by laying out the main challenges for agricultural governance in Nepal under the current structure To do so it relies on an original survey of 100 district agricultural and livestock officers in charge of local agricultural service delivery in Nepal as well as perspectives collected through more than two dozen semi structured interviews with officials from the Ministry of Agricultural Development the Ministry of Livestock Development civil society the private sector and donors Because Nepal is embarking on a pathway to more decentralized governance which has been well trodden by a number of other countries the paper proceeds by examining five case studies drawing lessons from India Indonesia Kenya Malaysia and South Africa Based on these analyses the paper offers policy recommendations on how the sector can be restructured to meet the constitutional provisions while simultaneously ensuring that the government can deliver on its long term objectives to develop the agricultural sector

Facing Up to Food Crisis in Sub-Saharan Africa International Association of

Research Scholars and Fellows. Symposium,2007 Sustainable Biomass Practices in China Darshini Mahadevia,Liyan Zhang,Priyadarshi R. Shukla,2017-01-01 Sustainable energy and local resource security has led the government of Peoples Republic of China PRC to support grassroots innovations in the use of biomass on one hand and strengthen and introduce national level legislation to related to environmental pollution and sustainable natural resource use The grassroots innovations have come through on account of the farmers desire to improve their working and living conditions while innovative technologies for the use of locally available biomass But on a macro level these grassroots innovations have direct as well as indirect context of the national level policies and legislation This book presents the national level policy framework on the sustainable use of biomass in China presents macro situation of the biomass availability in the country and in the locales of the case studies and macro level situation of the grassroots innovations by the farmers related to the use of biomass The book then presents detailed case studies of individual farmers innovations and the policy support they receive from the local government in line with the national government policies and programs Integrating Food Security Issues Into Agricultural Research Julia A. Earl,2001 Collaboration and Accountability in Agricultural Research Mario A. Allegri,1999 Innovation and Economic Development Lynn Krieger Mytelka,2007 Provides a theoretical foundation in innovation systems processes institutions and policies from the perspective of developing countries This book covers the topics of capacity building learning industrial development agricultural innovation and sustainable development

Contested Agronomy James Sumberg,John Thompson,2012-03-15 The dramatic increases in food prices experienced over the last four years and their effects of hunger and food insecurity as well as human induced climate change and its implications for agriculture food production and food security are key topics within the field of agronomy and agricultural research Contested Agronomy addresses these issues by exploring key developments since the mid 1970s focusing in particular on the emergence of the neoliberal project and the rise of the participation and environmental agendas taking into consideration how these have had profound impacts on the practice of agronomic research in the developing world especially over the last four decades This book explores through a series of case studies the basis for a much needed political agronomy analysis that highlights the impacts of problem framing and narratives historical disjunctures epistemic communities and the increasing pressure to demonstrate success on both agricultural research and the farmers processors and consumers it is meant to serve Whilst being a fascinating and thought provoking read for professionals in the Agriculture and Environmental sciences it will also appeal to students and researchers in agricultural policy development studies geography public administration rural sociology and science and technology studies Renewing innovation systems in agriculture and food E. Coudel,H. Devautour,C.T. Soulard,G. Faure,B. Hubert,2013-03-15 Present day society asks more from agriculture than just the production of food Agriculture is now required to be concerned with the quality of food ecosystem services inclusion of marginalized populations revitalization of rural territories energy production etc This opening up of the future of agriculture encourages rural actors to experiment with new farming systems using imagination creativity and determination to replace dominant models At the same time low cost mass production systems continue on their way with promises of a future based on green technologies In this discussion it is important to consider what kind of sustainable development societies really want Which innovations will help in achieving these developments What role can research and public policies play in supporting the emergence of these innovations This book takes the debate beyond the purely technical options and considers social and institutional innovations as well It demonstrates that innovation is the result of a confrontation between visions of actors who often have divergent interests There is no single path towards sustainable development and we must find ways to encourage the emergence and co existence of different types of agriculture and food systems The success of transitions will not only depend on our capacity to rethink existing models but especially on our willingness to embark on a creative learning process from which we will inevitably emerge transformed
