organization can play a vital role in limiting people's pain and creating opportunities. However, despite generous severance packages and outplacement services, many organizations have been little help to people who lose their jobs, suffer job stress, face unreasonably demanding bosses or suffer from physical handicaps or chronic illnesses. Most of the burden falls on individuals and their families. Assistance can and should come from employers, government agencies, educational institutions, and religious organizations. While the book focuses on the perspectives of people who have been or may be affected by career barriers, the material should be of interest to a broad range of readers, in particular academics who study careers, practitioners in the fields of training and development, and government officials who set public policy that affects displaced workers.

Integrating Psychotherapy and Psychophysiology Patrick Steffen, Donald Moss, 2024-05-08 In recent years there has been growing interest in exploring how psychophysiology can be used to enhance psychotherapeutic interventions and it is becoming more common for psychotherapists to use psychophysiological approaches such as biofeedback as a part of their therapy. Integrating Psychotherapy and Psychophysiology explores how these fields can be integrated to improve therapy outcomes and to provide a guide to professionals in the field. Structured in three parts, the first part focuses on theories underlying psychotherapy, psychophysiology integration with chapters on the neuroscience of mind, evolution and compassion, heart rate variability and mind-body integration and affect and understanding the world. The second part focuses on assessment aspects of psychotherapy, psychophysiology integration with chapters on the NIH Research Domain Criteria (RDoC) approach to assessment of psychopathology from a psychophysiological perspective, personality as a central factor in stress and cardiovascular reactivity and using the RDoC framework to understand and conceptualize personality. Death by Despair Ramón Martínez de Pisón, Ramón Martínez de Pisón L., 2006 Suicide is one of the major causes of violent death in our societies. The fact that adolescents and the elderly are the two population groups with the highest rates of suicide challenges many assumptions of the past regarding human development. By the time they reach their teens, many adolescents lack the necessary skills to deal with stressful events in a healthy, life-enhancing way. At the same time, the last stage of human development is not necessarily one in which people feel fulfilled. In this book, Ramón Martínez de Pisón expands the theory of Lazarus and Folkman (1984) for coping with stress in order to show that toxic shame is one of the
