Rethinking World History Marshall G. S. Hodgson,1993-05-28 Is the history of the modern world the history of Europe writ large Or is it possible to situate the history of modernity as a world historical process apart from its origins in Western Europe In this posthumous collection of essays Marshall G S Hodgson challenges adherents of both Eurocentrism and multiculturalism to rethink the place of Europe in world history He argues that the line that connects Ancient Greeks to the Renaissance to modern times is an optical illusion and that a global and Asia centred history can better locate the European experience in the shared histories of humanity Hodgson then shifts the historical focus and in a parallel move seeks to locate the history of Islamic civilisation in a world historical framework In so doing he concludes that there is but one history global history and that all partial or privileged accounts must necessarily be resituated in a world historical context The book also includes an introduction by the editor Edmund Burke contextualising Hodgson s work in world history and Islamic history

France ,1920 When Empire Meets Nationalism Florent Parmentier,Mr Benoît Pélopidas,Mr Didier Chaudet,2013-03-28 This innovative study presents an in depth political and sociological analysis of the internal power politics and imperial forms developed by the Russian neo eurasianists and the neo conservatives in the United States It traces the growth of nationalism and the concept of Empire in relation to the ideologies and foreign policy of both Russia and the USA Beginning with a genealogy of the two movements the authors present the intricacy of imperial rhetoric and nationalist ideologies in modern states compared with the distinctive definition of Empire as a politico historical form The extent to which these ideas have shaped the foreign policy of Russia and the USA is then related to events in Central Asia Afghanistan Iran Iraq Saudi Arabia and Turkey The analysis of each case provides a better understanding of the imperial character of these foreign policies in relation to their nationalist foundations The combination of political theory and geopolitics makes this cutting edge research a must read to all interested in the evolving discourse surrounding Empire Nelson's Encyclopaedia ,1907 Khrushchev's Thaw and National Identity in Soviet Azerbaijan, 1954-1959 Jamil Hasanli,2014-12-18 On February 25 1956 Soviet leader Nikita S Khrushchev delivered the so called secret speech in the Twentieth Party

Congress of the CPSU in which he denounced Stalin's transgressions and the cult of personality around the deceased dictator. Replete with sharp criticism of the Terror of the late 1930s, the unpreparedness of the USSR for the Nazi invasion, numerous wartime blunders, and the deportation of various nationalities, the speech reverberated throughout the subordinate Soviet republics. For republics such as Azerbaijan, the speech was an unmistakable signal to readjust the entire political orientation and figure out ways to redefine governance in the post-Stalin era. Previously frozen under the mortal threat of Stalinist persecution, various forms of national self-expression began to experience rapid revival under the Khrushchev thaw. Encouraged by the winds of change at the Center, the Azeris cautiously began to reclaim possession of their administrative domain. Among other local initiatives, the declaration of the Azerbaijani language as the official language was one step that stood out in its audacity for it was not pre-arranged with the Kremlin and defied the modus operandi of the Soviet leadership. Somewhat reformist in his intentions yet ignorant of the non-Slavic peripheries, Mr. Khrushchev had not foreseen the scenarios that would unfold as a result of its new tone and the developments that would come to be interpreted as the rise of nationalism in the republics. Jamil Hasanli's research on 1950s Azerbaijan sheds light on this watershed period in Soviet history while also furnishing the reader with a greater understanding of the root causes of the dissolution of the USSR.

Turkish Society: Winds Of Change In The Historical Process Nural Denker, 2024-09-13 In his latest Research Narrative book, Nural Denker delves into the ancestral journey of Turks, tracing their encounters with Arab civilization before arriving in Anatolia and their subsequent interactions with the ancient cultures of Armenians and Syrians. Denker elucidates how these encounters naturally influenced them, gradually shaping them into Anatolians as they embraced Islam in a distinct manner. Their absorption of the Byzantine Empire is portrayed as a transformation process deeply intertwined with identity. Upon venturing into European territories, Turks advanced at times, engaging in conflict with unknown forces, while the fusion of identity through interaction with others emerged, often evoking fear yet occasionally leaving an indelible mark on the enigmatic realm of the East. Yet, they have now seamlessly integrated into the Old World. While emphasizing the fact that not every idea, innovation, or change could reach every corner of the colossal Ottoman Empire, the author narrates the consequences of this development and interaction that we still experience today as if conducting a cultural archaeological excavation, particularly highlighting how the remnants of Securianian culture are the shared legacy of the aged Ottoman Empire and the young Turkish Republic.

100 Poems to Break Your Heart Edward Hirsch, 2021 We are not so much diminished as enlarged by grief by our refusal to vanish or to let others vanish without leaving a verbal record. The poet is one who will not be reconciled; who is determined to leave a trace in words to transform oceanic depths of feeling into the faithful nuances of art. Poetry companions us. Poems are written in solitude but they reach out to others, which makes poetry a social act. It rises out of one solitude to meet another. Poems of terrible sadness and loss trouble and challenge us but they also make us feel less alone and more connected. Our own desolations become more recognizable to us, more articulate.

something shared We become less isolated in our sorrow and thus are befriended by the words of another There is something ennobling in grief that is compacted expressed and transfigured into poetry Book jacket
