ABSTRACT

This study aims to formulate a Teaching Factory (TEFA) planning strategy, especially in the Department of Agribusiness Management at Politeknik Negeri Jember. The urgency of research can be used as the basis for pioneering TEFA in the Department of Agribusiness Management that is integrated and sustainable. This research is quantitative descriptive research conducted purposively at the Department of Agribusiness Management, Politeknik Negeri Jember. The analytical tool used in this research is a SWOT analysis. The results of the analysis show that several alternative strategies that can be carried out include: (a) Optimizing TEFA startup facilities and infrastructure; (b) Optimization of learning methods adapted to industry; (c) Improving the quality of TEFA products; (d) Strengthening cooperation with industry; (e) Improving the quality of human resources; (f) Identification of the marketing mix; (g) Increasing technological innovation and following corporate culture; and (h) Increasing partnership cooperation.

Keywords: Teaching Factory, strategies, SWOT, vocational education

1. INTRODUCTION

Politeknik Negeri Jember is one of the prominent vocational universities that print a skilled and competent generation. It follows the vision of Politeknik Negeri Jember, which will become a Superior State Polytechnic in Asia by 2035. One of its missions is to improve innovative and competitive applied education. Several strategies have been developed, ranging from applying product-based curricula, links, and matches with industry. Furthermore, industry-based learning development efforts also began to be developed through the construction of the Teaching Factory (TEFA). Teaching factories can be a concept of learning development in actual circumstances to bridge the competency gap between the given science and the needs of the industry. Until now, there have been as many as twenty-three TEFA spread across several departments and Integrated Development Unit (U.P.T.) Jember State Polytechnic [1].

The Department of Agribusiness Management is one of the majors at Politeknik Negeri Jember that has initiated the establishment of TEFA. Tefa's formation plan is based on the concept of a product-based curriculum built in the Agribusiness Management Department. To support the implementation of the curriculum by providing industry-based learning services and direct practice that is standardized according to industry needs. It is an effort to develop innovative learning and effective practice. TEFA startup that the Department of Agribusiness Management will initiate is TEFA Agrimart, focusing on marketing services. This TEFA can develop learning methods of courses and practicums in the Department of Agribusiness Management. It is expected that this TEFA can also be a place or means of competency tests. In line with the development activities of competency test schemes carried out in the Department of Agribusiness Management, the "Operational Marketers" scheme results from links and matches the industry.

The conformity of TEFA Agrimart initiation with industry, and the availability of supporting Human Resources (H.R.), as well as the existence of facilities in the form of laboratories (Entrepreneurship Laboratories,
