Hax, 1996 Management of Research and Development Organizations Ravinder Kumar Jain, Harry C. Triandis, 1997 This edition has been completely revised The authors noted authorities in the field focus on ways to improve R D organization productivity and foster excellence in such companies They describe how to design jobs organize hierarchies resolve conflicts motivate employees and create an innovative work environment Features extensive cross cultural coverage of European and Pacific Rim R D organizations and policies which greatly differ from the US Includes an entirely new section on various strategic planning elements unique to an R D organization along with a case study Strategy Geoff Goldman, Cecile Nieuwenhuizen, 2006 This book introduces learners to the fundamental concepts of strategic management of a small business in the context of increasing globalisation The text is designed to provide learners with the tools to analyse formulate and implement strategies that will enhance the performance of any small business Workspace Strategies Jacqueline C. Vischer, 2012-12-06 We live in era of transformation of technology of social values and of the way work is done This book represents a timely and innovative addition to current thinking and writing about transformation in organizations In order to meet an increasingly global and competitive environment organizations are undergoing reengineering work process redesign right sizing creating a virtual office and other forms of restructuring and basic change of the way work is accomplished Such transformation means analyzing and redesigning core processes in organizations around new kinds of principles such as total quality and customer service The eventual effect of these changes is likely to be the networked or boundary less organization in which the traditional boundaries between functions and between producers and their suppliers and sometimes even between organizations and their competitors are broken down The goal of such transformation is to make the work of the organization more efficient and productive to produce more with fewer resources and at a lower cost In the conventional view of the transformation process certain secondary concerns such as the need to protect the environment or to help an increasingly heterogeneous work force deal with its personal issues are seen as problematic for this core thrust Some recent work however is beginning to show that if these so called secondary concerns are considered central far from being problematic they actually present strategy opportunities for productive innovation and change Strategy and Strategists James Cunningham, Brian Harney, 2012-03-29 Importantly this stimulating text

Burke, 1999-02-28 Burke challenges the current thesis that companies should act responsibly toward communities and societies Instead he shows that changes in society mandate that companies must develop strategies and programs that foster a reputation of trust in local communities in order that they preserve their license to operate Burke describes strategies and programs of action that enable companies to develop trust and thus maintain their license to operate He also describes ways to use philanthropy and volunteer programs to achieve a competitive advantage The public environment in which companies operate has changed significantly since the 1970s Communities in response to elected officials and community groups are demanding that companies observe new norms of behavior They expect companies to respect the environment respond to the concerns of the community residents and contribute to the support of community institutions As Burke illustrates a company's community reputation also affects the behavior of consumers and employees Consumers prefer to buy products from companies that are involved in the community Employees are attracted to companies that have a good community reputation Just as successful companies need to be a supplier of choice an employer of choice and an investor of choice they now have to become a neighbor of choice They have to behave in ways that build a legacy of trust in order to be positioned positively in the community As Burke shows to be a neighbor of choice a company has to pursue three strategies build sustainable and ongoing relationships with key community individuals groups and organizations institute procedures that anticipate and respond to community expectations concerns needs and issues and focus the company s community programs on ways that promote and strengthen the community s quality of life and which also support the business goals of the company The strategies developed by Burke will be of great use to community and public affairs managers and general managers of corporations as well as CEOs and other executive officers Students in courses on corporate strategy and general management will find the book of value as will students in courses on non profit management
