

The Correspondence Theory of Truth

- Finally, the theory is based on the notion of “correspondence.” But it is objected by critics, what does this really mean? What is the nature of correspondence?
- Clear examples of correspondence are:
 1. resemblance like a paint chip resembles the color of paint on your wall, or
 2. portrayal like when a picture copies the scene it copies
- But neither of these can be the kind of correspondence that is being asserted when we say a statement in a language corresponds to a state of affairs in the world.
