Stream of Consciousness Barry Dainton, 2006 An in-depth investigation into the phenomenology of conscious experience: the nature of awareness, introspection, phenomenal space and time. Consciousness: A fascinating and probing study.

Stream of Consciousness in the Modern Novel Robert Humphrey, 1954-01-01 Robert Humphrey seeks to provide a precise understanding of stream of consciousness in literature: its purpose, its techniques and its significance. Through an examination of the work of James Joyce, Virginia Woolf, Dorothy Richardson, William Faulkner and other contemporaries, he points to the various means novelists have used to express the inchoate psychic life of their character. He discusses at length the purpose and usefulness of free association, the chief device for depicting and controlling both the movement and the privacy of consciousness. His treatment of what he terms cinematic devices such as montage, flash back, fade out is particularly illuminating. In his discussion of forms Mr. Humphrey analyses the various structural patterns that stream of consciousness writers have used in lieu of conventional plots and shows how they have managed the unities of space and time. This book makes challenging reading for the serious students of literature and should prove especially to writers.

The Phenomenology of Pain Saulius Geniusas, 2022-08-30 The Phenomenology of Pain is the first book length investigation of its topic to appear in English Groundbreaking systematic and illuminating it opens a dialogue between phenomenology and such disciplines as cognitive science and cultural anthropology to argue that science alone cannot clarify the nature of pain experience without incorporating a phenomenological approach Building on this premise Saulius Geniusas develops a novel conception of pain grounded in phenomenological principles pain is an aversive bodily feeling with a distinct experiential quality which can only be given in original first hand experience either as a feeling sensation or as an emotion Geniusas crystallizes the fundamental methodological principles that underlie phenomenological research On the basis of those principles he offers a phenomenological clarification of the fundamental structures of pain experience and contests the common conflation of phenomenology with introspectionism Geniusas analyzes numerous pain dissociation syndromes brings into focus the de personalizing and re personalizing nature of chronic pain experience and demonstrates what role somatization and psychologization play in pain experience In the process he advances Husserlian phenomenology in a direction that is not explicitly worked out in Husserl's own writings

The Conscious Stream Denise Ingebo-Barth, 2000-12-01 The Conscious Stream describes a theory built on the idea that consciousness a stream of separate conscious instants like frames making up a reel of film is formed as trajectories circulate around the nervous system circuitry In this model a trajectory is a series of neuron groups energized in turn Picture it as a sequence of lights flashing around a marquee or perhaps as a comet blazing through a linked series of packed neuron groups through circuits of the nervous system When a trajectory passes through the thalamus a central area of the brain an instant of experience is inserted into our lifelong conscious stream This instant of experience can be a sensation thought or feeling The particular instant depends on the source of the trajectory When a trajectory is initiated by sound waves to the ear and passes through the thalamus for example a sensation in this case a sound enters the conscious stream As the description of this model progresses we see how a trajectory from the thalamus to the cortex is recorded and becomes a part of a network of records and how when concurrent trajectories in the cortical network converge and generate a trajectory back to the thalamus a thought enters the conscious stream In addition as trajectories evolve being repeated prolonged released or compounded emotional feelings enter the conscious stream Over time patterns of invigoration and relaxation stagnation and relief are generated forming our life s emotional quality Finally the model shows how links of activity form a cycle and how a pattern of cycles forms an activity Patterns of activities in turn form a lifestyle In this model then the character of circulation in the nervous system reflects emotional fitness Although designed primarily for students of neuroscience this proposed model may also be evaluated by those having an interest in the physical processes underlying emotional fitness

Selfhood and Appearing James Mensch, 2018-07-10 What is the relation between our selfhood and appearing Our embodiment positions us in the world situating us as an object among its visible objects Yet by opening and shutting our eyes we can make the visible world appear and disappear a fact that convinces us that the world is in us Thus we have to assert with Merleau Ponty that we are in the world that is in us the two are intertwined Author James Mensch employs the insights of Jan Pato ka s asubjective phenomenology to understand this double relationship of being in In this volume he shows how this relation constitutes the reality of our selfhood shaping our social and political interactions as well as the violence that constantly threatens to undermine them

Self-representational Approaches to Consciousness Uriah Kriegel, Kenneth Williford, 2006 Leading theorists examine the self representational theory of consciousness as an alternative to the two dominant reductive theories of consciousness the representational theory of consciousness and the higher order monitoring theory In this pioneering collection of essays leading theorists examine the self representational theory of consciousness which holds that consciousness always involves some form of self awareness The self representational theory of consciousness stands as an alternative to the two dominant reductive theories of consciousness the representational theory of consciousness RTC and the higher order monitoring HOM theory combining elements of both RTC and HOM theory in a novel fashion that may avoid the fundamental deficiencies of each Although self representationalist views have been common throughout the history of both Western and Eastern philosophy they have been largely neglected in the recent literature on consciousness This book approaches the self representational theory from a range of perspectives with contributions from scholars in analytic philosophy phenomenology and history of philosophy as well as two longer essays by Antonio Damasio and David Rudrauf and Douglas Hofstadter The book opens with six essays that argue broadly in favor of self representationalist views which are followed by five that argue broadly against them Contributors next consider connections to such philosophical issues as the nature of propositional attitudes knowledge attention and indexical reference Finally Damasio and Rudrauf link consciousness as lived with consciousness as described in neurobiological terms and Hofstadter compares consciousness to the strange loop of mathematical self reference brought to light by Gödel's incompleteness theorems Contributors Andrew Brook Peter Carruthers Antonio Damasio John J Drummond Jason Ford Rocco J Gennaro George Graham Christopher S Hill Douglas R Hofstadter Terry Horgan Tomis Kapitan Uriah Kriegel Keith Lehrer Joseph Levine Robert W Lurz David Rudrauf David Woodruff Smith John Tienson Robert Van Gulick Kathleen Wider Kenneth Williford Dan Zahavi

Onflow Ralph Jason Pred, 2005-02-25 Understanding consciousness by taking the stream of consciousness seriously a general characterization of experience and a detailed description of experience from within drawing on theories of William James Alfred North Whitehead John Searle and Gerald Edelman In Onflow Ralph Pred supplies an account of the nature of consciousness that grapples with the raw un verbalized stream of experience Unlike other recent philosophical accounts of consciousness Pred's analysis deals with the elusive and commonly neglected continuities in the stream of consciousness Pred offers a general characterization and analysis of experience as well as a highly detailed interpretation of experience from within Determined to make conceptual contact with the immediacy of actual experience Pred carries forward the radical empiricism pioneered by William James who coined the term stream of consciousness and draws on the process philosophy of Alfred North Whitehead To help readers apprehend the formation of conscious thoughts the intertwining of perception and action and the working of consciousness in onflowing experience Pred applies methods of analysis developed in John Searle's theory of intentionality to James's views thereby showing how intentional states are embedded in the stream of consciousness Then calling on Whitehead's treatment of lived moments as acts of experience Pred provides an account of consciousness that at once deals with conscious thoughts as they emerge from and function in embodied socialized experience and illustrates how language distorts our understanding of experience and subjectivity Finally he details striking parallels between this account and Gerald Edelman's biological theory of consciousness and in contrasting the two argues for a revitalized version of the experiential monism originally formulated by James

Founding Psychoanalysis Phenomenologically Dieter Lohmar, Jagna Brudzinska, 2011-10-12 The present anthology seeks to give an overview of the different approaches to establish a relation between phenomenology and psychoanalysis primarily from the viewpoint of current phenomenological research Already during the lifetimes of the two disciplines founders Edmund Husserl 1859-1938 and Sigmund Freud 1856-1939 phenomenological and phenomenologically inspired authors were advancing psychoanalytic theses For both traditions the Second World War presented a painful and devastating disruption of their development and mutual exchange During the postwar period phenomenologists especially in France revisited psychoanalytic topics. Thus in the so called second generation of phenomenology there developed an intensive reception of the psychoanalytic tradition one that finds its expression even today in current hermeneutic postmodern and poststructuralist conceptions. But also in more recent phenomenological research we find projects concentrated systematically on psychoanalysis and its theses. In this context the status of psychoanalysis as a science of human experience is discussed anew now approached on the first person basis of a phenomenological understanding of subjective experience. In such approaches phenomena like incorporation phantasy emotion and the unconscious are discussed afresh. These topics important for modern phenomenology as well as for psychoanalysis are examined in the context of the constitution of the human person as well as of our intersubjective world. The analyses are also interdisciplinary making use of connections with modern medicine psychiatry and psychotherapy. The systematic investigations are enriched by historical analysis and research in the internal development of the disciplines involved. The volume presents recent work of internationally recognized researchers phenomenologically oriented philosophers psychoanalysts and psychotherapists who work in the common field of the two disciplines. The editors hope that this selection will encourage further systematic collaboration between phenomenology and psychoanalysis.

The Grand Continuum David A. White, 2010-11-23

The assumptions that literary criticism and philosophy are closely linked and that both disciplines can learn much from each other lead David White to examine key passages in James Joyce's novels both as a philosopher and as literary critic. In so doing he develops a thesis that Joyce's attempt to capture the mysterious process whereby perception and consciousness are translated into language entails a fundamental challenge to everyday notions of reality. Joyce's stylistic brilliance and virtuosity his destruction of normal syntax and meaning shock one into a new reality. In the book's final section White examines the subtle relation between literary language and human consciousness and traces parallels between Joyce's stylistic experimentation and Wittgenstein's and Husserl's ideas about language.
