Buford May, 2014-09-02 Sociologists have long been curious about the ways in which city dwellers negotiate urban public space How do they manage myriad interactions in the shared spaces of the city In Urban Nightlife sociologist Reuben May undertakes a nuanced examination of urban nightlife drawing on ethnographic data gathered in a Deep South college town to explore the question of how nighttime revelers negotiate urban public spaces as they go about meeting socializing and entertaining themselves May s work reveals how diverse partiers define these spaces in particular the ongoing social conflict on the streets in bars and nightclubs and in the various public spaces of downtown To explore this conflict May develops the concept of integrated segregation the idea that diverse groups are physically close to one another yet rarely have meaningful interactions rather they are socially bound to those of similar race class and cultural backgrounds May s in depth research leads him to conclude that social tension is stubbornly persistent in part because many participants fail to make the connection between contemporary relations among different groups and the historical and institutional forces that perpetuate those very tensions structural racism remains obscured by a superficial appearance of racial harmony Through May s observations Urban Nightlife clarifies the complexities of race class and culture in contemporary America illustrating the direct influence of local government and nightclub management decision making on interpersonal interaction among groups Watch a video with Reuben A Buford May Watch video now <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=VCs1xExStPw> Cruising World , 1991-05 Race, Liberalism, and Economics David Colander, Robert E. Prasch, Falguni A. Sheth, 2006-11-27 Explores how economic reasoning relates to the broader concepts of liberalism and racism Us versus Them Jan Doering, 2020-02-14 Crime and gentrification are hot button issues that easily polarize racially diverse neighborhoods How do residents activists and politicians navigate the thorny politics of race as they fight crime or resist gentrification And do conflicts over competing visions of neighborhood change necessarily divide activists into racially homogeneous camps or can they produce more complex alliances and divisions In Us versus Them Jan Doering answers these questions through an in depth study of two Chicago neighborhoods Drawing on three and a half years of ethnographic fieldwork Doering examines how activists and community leaders clashed and collaborated as they launched new initiatives built coalitions appeased critics and discredited opponents At the heart of these political maneuvers he uncovers a ceaseless battle over racial meanings that unfolded as residents strove to make local initiatives and urban change appear racially benign or malignant A thoughtful and clear eyed contribution to the field Us versus Them reveals the deep impact that competing racial meanings have on the fabric of community and the direction of neighborhood change Hidden History
