equally utopian belief that it could finally reject the possibility of all such illusory ideals Toth argues that this specter of an impossible future is and must remain both possible and impossible a ghostly promise of what is always still to come Josh Toth teaches literature and critical theory at Grant MacEwan College and is coeditor with Neil Brooks of The Mourning After Attending the Wake of Postmodernism

Josh Toth,2020-12-10 Metafiction has long been associated with the heyday of literary postmodernism with a certain sense of irresponsibility political apathy or outright nihilism Yet if as is now widely assumed postmodernism has finally run its course how might we account for the proliferation of metafictional devices in contemporary narrative media Does this persistence undermine the claim that postmodernism has passed or has the function of metafiction somehow changed To answer these questions Josh Toth considers a broad range of recent metafictional texts bywriters such as George Saunders and Jennifer Egan and directors such as Sofia Coppola and Quentin Tarantino At the same time he traverses a diffuse theoretical landscape from the rise of various new materialisms in philosophy and the turn to affect in literary criticism to the seemingly endless efforts to name postmodernism's ostensible successor Ultimately Toth argues that much contemporary metafiction moves beyond postmodern skepticism to reassert the possibility of making true claims about real things Capable of combating a post truth crisis such forms assert or assume a kind of Hegelian plasticity they actively and persistently confront the trauma of what is infinitely mutable or perpetually other What is outside or before a given representation is confirmed and endured as that which exceeds the instance of its capture The truth is thereby renewed neither denied nor simply assumed it is approached as ethically as possible Its plasticity is grasped because the grasp the form of its narrative apprehension lets slip

Rewriting Christian Moraru,2001-09-20 Does the postmodern process of rewriting stories by earlier writers point to a crisis of originality in our cloning culture In Rewriting the first systematic examination of this tendency in late twentieth century American fiction Christian Moraru answers this question with a no by examining a wide range of representative writers including E L Doctorow Robert Coover Paul Auster Charles Johnson Ishmael Reed Trey Ellis Kathy Acker Mark Leyner and Bharati Mukherjee among others Moraru shows that in reworking the emblematic nineteenth century short
