written by later generations shaping the course of the English literary tradition to come Texts and Cultural Change in Early Modern England Cedric C. Brown, Arthur F. Marotti, 1997-12-13 This is a wide ranging closely researched collection written by scholars from both sides of the Atlantic on the cultural placement and transmission of texts between 1520 and 1750 Material and historical conditions of texts are analysed and the range of works is wide including plays and the Lucrece of Shakespeare with adaptations and a discussion of reading playtexts Sidney's Arcadia Greene's popular Pandosto both discussed in the contexts of changing readerships and forms of fiction Hakluyt's travel books funerary verse and the writings of Katherine Parr and Elizabethan Catholic martyrs Readers and Authorship in Early Modern England Stephen B. Dobranski, 2005-03-17 Publisher Description The Politics of Early Modern Women's Writing Danielle Clarke, 2014-06-11 The Politics of Early Modern Women's Writing provides an introduction to the ever expanding field of early modern women's writing by reading texts in their historical and social contexts Covering a wide range of forms and genres the author shows that rather than women conforming to the conventional chaste silent and obedient model or merely working from the margins of Renaissance culture they in fact engaged centrally with many of the major ideas and controversies of their time The book discusses many previously neglected texts and authors as well as more familiar figures such as Mary Sidney Countess of Pembroke Isabella Whitney and Lady Mary Wroth and draws attention to the importance of genre and forms of circulation in the production of meaning The Politics of Early Modern Women will be of interest both to those encountering this material for the first time and to students and scholars working in the fields of women's writing gender studies history and literature Romancing the Self in Early Modern Englishwomen's Life Writing Julie A. Eckerle, 2016-04-01 Juxtaposing life writing and romance this study offers the first book length exploration of the dynamic and complex relationship between the two genres In so doing it operates at the intersection of several recent trends interest in women's contributions to autobiography greater awareness of the diversity and flexibility of auto biographical forms in the early modern period and the use of manuscripts and other material evidence to trace literacy practices Through analysis of a wide variety of life writings by early modern Englishwomen including Elizabeth Delaval Dorothy Calthorpe Ann Fanshawe and Anne Halkett Julie A Eckerle demonstrates that these women were not only familiar with the controversial romance genre but also deeply influenced by it Romance she argues with its unending tales of unsatisfying love spoke to something in women's experience offered a model by which they could recount their own disappointments in a world where arranged marriage and often loveless matches ruled the day and exerted a powerful pervasive pressure on their textual self formations Romancing the Self in Early Modern Englishwomen's Life Writing documents a vibrant secular form of auto biographical writing that coexisted alongside numerous spiritual forms providing a much more nuanced and complete understanding of sixteenth and seventeenth century women's reading and writing literacies Cosmographical Glasses Constance Caroline Relihan, 2004 In Cosmographical Glasses Constance Relihan examines the ways in which sixteenth century English texts

traveler's reports ethnographic studies and geographic guides provide the foundation for how fictional prose of the period envisions the locations in which its tales are set Relihan suggests that this nonfictional discourse becomes central to how the fictional prose of the period imagines cultural identity fictional purpose and gender identity Places and cultures were defined in opposition to each other in early modern romances In the examples in Cosmographical Glasses writers attempt to define the spaces of their texts in an effort to identify what it means to be male English and Elizabethan pieces seize the spirit of ethnographic and geographic texts as well as the ways in which historically identifiable and overtly fictional places were used to complicate representations of utopian fantasies A number of prose romances and novella collections and their use of historical and geographical facts are analyzed in order to explore the associations between the genre the discourses of colonialism and the construction of gender These texts become glasses that reflect and refract the social and cultural realities of early modern England Those interested in sixteenth and seventeenth century English literature the history of the novel and the influence of travel literature on fictional texts will appreciate Cosmographical Glasses

The Voices of Romance Ann Dobyns, 1989 This study focuses on techniques of romance characterization and through stylistic analysis compares speech characteristics of parallel characters in Thomas Malory's Le Morte Darthur Philip Sidney's New Arcadia and Emily Brontë's Wuthering Heights

Hannay, 2017-05-15 Mary Sidney Herbert Countess of Pembroke was renowned in her own time for her metrical translation of biblical Psalms several original poems translations from French and Italian and her literary patronage William Shakespeare used her Antony and Cleopatra as a source Edmund Spenser celebrated her original poems John Donne praised her Psalms and Lady Mary Wroth and Aemilia Lanyer depicted her as an exemplary poet Arguably the first Englishwoman to be celebrated as a literary figure she has also attracted considerable modern attention including more than two hundred critical studies This volume offers a brief introduction to her life and an extensive overview of the critical reception of her works reprints some of the most essential and least accessible essays about her life and writings and includes a full bibliography

Authorial Personality and the Making of Renaissance Texts Douglas S. Pfeiffer, 2020-09-03 How did we first come to believe in a correspondence between writers' lives and their works When did the person of the author both as context and target of textual interpretation come to matter so much to the way we read This book traces the development of author centrism back to the scholarship of early Renaissance humanists Working against allegoresis and other traditions of non historicizing textual reception they discovered the power of engaging ancient works through the speculative reconstruction of writers' personalities and artistic motives To trace the multi lingual and eventually cross cultural rise of reading for the author this book presents four case studies of resolutely experimental texts by and about writers of high ambition in their respective generations Lorenzo Valla on the forger of the Donation of Constantine Erasmus on Saint Jerome the poet George Gascoigne on himself and Fulke Greville on Sir Philip Sidney An opening methodological chapter and exhortative conclusion frame these four studies with accounts of the central lexicon character intention ethos persona and the range of genre evidence that contemporaries used to discern and articulate authorial character and purpose Constellated throughout with examples from the works of major contemporaries including John Aubrey John Hayward Galileo Machiavelli and Shakespeare this volume resurrects a vibrant culture of biographism continuous with modern popular practice and yet radically more nuanced in its strategic reliance on the explanatory power of probabilism and historical conjecture the discursive middle ground now obscured from view by the post Enlightenment binaries of truth and fiction history and story fact and fable

Renaissance Romance Dr Nandini Das, 2013-05-28 Romance was criticized for its perceived immorality throughout the Renaissance and even enthusiasts were often forced to acknowledge the shortcomings of its dated narrative conventions Yet despite that general condemnation the striking growth in English fiction in the late sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries is marked by writers who persisted in using this much maligned narrative form In Renaissance Romance Nandini Das examines why the fears and expectations surrounding the old genre of romance resonated with successive new generations at this particular historical juncture Across a range of texts in which romance was adopted by the court by popular print and by women Das shows how the process of realignment and transformation through which the new prose fiction took shape was driven by a generational consciousness that was always inherent in romance In the fiction produced by writers such as Sir Philip Sidney Robert Greene and Lady Mary Wroth the transformative interaction of romance with other emergent forms from the court masque to cartography was determined by specific configurations of social groups drawn along the lines of generational difference What emerged as a result of that interaction radically changed the possibilities of fiction in the period

Oral Traditions and Gender in Early Modern Literary Texts Mary Ellen Lamb, Karen Bamford, 2017-11-28 Proposing a fresh approach to scholarship on the topic this volume explores the cultural meanings especially the gendered meanings of material associated with oral traditions The collection is divided into three sections Part One investigates the evocations of the old nurse as storyteller so prominent in early modern fictions The essays in Part Two investigate women's fashioning of oral traditions to serve their own purposes The third section disturbs the exclusive associations between the feminine and oral traditions to discover implications for masculinity as well Contributors explore the plays of Shakespeare and writings of Spenser Sidney Wroth and the Cavendishes as well as works by less well known or even unknown authors Framed by an introduction by Mary Ellen Lamb and an afterword by Pamela Allen Brown these essays make several important interventions in scholarship in the field They demonstrate the continuing cultural importance of an oral tradition of tales and ballads even if sometimes circulated in manuscript and printed forms Rather than in its mode of transmission contributors posit that the continuing significance of this oral tradition lies instead in the mode of consumption the immediacy of the interaction of the participants Oral Traditions and Gender in Early Modern Literary Texts confirms the power of oral traditions to shape and also to unsettle concepts of the masculine as well as of the feminine This collection usefully complicates any easy assumptions about associations of oral traditions with gender

The Culture of Cloth in Early Modern England Roze Hentschell, 2016-03-16 Through its exploration of the intersections between the culture of the wool broadcloth industry and the literature of the early modern period this study contributes to the expanding field of material studies in sixteenth and seventeenth century England The author argues that it is impossible to comprehend the development of emerging English nationalism during that time period without considering the culture of the cloth industry She shows that reaching far beyond its status as a commodity of production and exchange that industry was also a locus for organizing sentiments of national solidarity across social and economic divisions Hentschell looks to textual productions both imaginative and non fiction works that often treat the cloth industry with mythic importance to help explain how cloth came to be a catalyst for nationalism Each chapter ties a particular mode such as pastoral prose romance travel propaganda satire and drama with a specific issue of the cloth industry demonstrating the distinct work different literary genres contributed to what the author terms the culture of cloth

Law, Text, Terror Ian Ward, 2009-04-16 Ian Ward places contemporary political and jurisprudential responses to terrorism within a broader literary cultural and historical context

The Rhetoric of Concealment Rosemary Kegl, 1994 Demonstrating how struggles over gender and class were mediated through formal properties of writing The Rhetoric of Concealment offers a new framework for the discussion of court literature and middle class literature in the English Renaissance Rosemary Kegl offers powerful readings of works by Puttenham Sidney Shakespeare and Deloney and considers an array of other texts including journals gynecological and obstetrical writings misogynist tracts defenses of women prescriptive literature on companionate marriage royal proclamations legal records and town charters
