Indigenous People, Crime and Punishment Thalia Anthony, 2013-07-24 Indigenous People Crime and Punishment examines criminal sentencing courts changing characterisations of Indigenous peoples identity culture and postcolonial status Focusing largely on Australian Indigenous peoples but drawing also on the Canadian experiences Thalia Anthony critically analyses how the judiciary have interpreted Indigenous difference Through an analysis of Indigenous sentencing remarks over a fifty year period in a number of jurisdictions the book demonstrates how judicial discretion is moulded to dominant white assumptions about Indigeneity More specifically Indigenous People Crime and Punishment shows how the increasing demonisation of Indigenous criminality and culture in sentencing has turned earlier gains in the legal recognition of Indigenous peoples on their head The recognition of Indigenous difference is thereby revealed as a pliable concept that is just as likely to remove concessions as it is to grant them Indigenous People Crime and Punishment suggests that Indigenous justice requires a two way recognition process where Indigenous people and legal systems are afforded greater control in sentencing dispute resolution and Indigenous healing

Hawke's Law Ronald T. Libby, 2003-10-29 Previous studies of the mining industry's influence on Australian policy have been forced to rely on informed speculation about the industry's actions Hawke's Law is the first to benefit from unrestricted access to industry sources and documentation including mining industry archives and interviews with top executives It is also the only definitive study of the Labor Party government's long promised attempt to formulate national Aboriginal rights legislation

Settling for Less Lachlan McNamee, 2023-01-17 Why countries colonize the lands of indigenous people Over the past few centuries vast areas of the world have been violently colonized by settlers But why did states like Australia and the United States stop settling frontier lands during the twentieth century At the same time why did states loudly committed to decolonization like Indonesia and China start settling the lands of such minorities as the West Papuans and Uyghurs Settling for Less traces this bewildering historical reversal explaining when and why indigenous peoples suffer displacement at the hands of settlers Lachlan McNamee challenges the notion that settler colonialism can be explained by economics or racial ideologies He tells a more complex story about state building and the conflicts of interest between indigenous peoples states and settlers Drawing from a rich array of historical evidence McNamee shows that states generally colonize frontier areas in response to security concerns Elite schemes to populate contested frontiers with loyal settlers however often fail As societies grow wealthier and cities increasingly become magnets for migration states ultimately lose the power to settle frontier lands Settling for Less uncovers the internal dynamics of settler colonialism and the diminishing power of colonizers in a rapidly urbanizing world Contrasting successful and failed colonization projects in Australia Indonesia China and beyond this book demonstrates that economic development by thwarting colonization has proven a powerful force for indigenous self determination

Criminalizing Children David McCallum,2017-12-21 Incarceration of children is rising rapidly throughout of Australia with indigenous children most at risk of imprisonment Indigenous and non indigenous children have been subject to detention in both welfare and justice systems in Australian states and territories since colonization Countless governments and human rights enquiries have attempted to address the problem of the increasing criminalization of children with little success David McCallum traces the history of problem children over several decades demonstrating that the categories of neglected and offending children are both linked to similar kinds of governing Institutions and encampments have historically played a significant role in contributing to the social problems of today This book also takes a theoretical perspective tracking parallel developments within the human sciences of childhood and theories of race Applying a social theoretical analysis of these events and the changing rationalities of governing McCallum challenges our assumptions about how law and governance of children leads to their criminalization and incarceration

Two Way Teaching and Learning Nola Purdie,Gina Milgate,Hannah Rachel Bell,2012-01-01 Within the Education Revolution lies another quieter revolution that attempts to raise the profile and status and improve the learning outcomes of Australia s Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples children young adults women and men Two Way Teaching and Learning addresses the interface where two cultures meet in the classroom the school and the community Most of the contributors to this book are Indigenous and all are highly experienced practitioners drawn from academia the teaching profession or the community Together and through a diversity of voices they put the spotlight on policies and processes that facilitate informed respectful relationships in education as well as those that reinforce cultural inequity and inequality The implications of policies that can be liberating or devastating for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students at all levels are exposed and explored with forensic care

Social Impact Analysis Laurence R. Goldman,2020-08-20 This book addresses the nature purpose and processes associated with social impact analysis Because resource development projects occur in human as well as ecological environments stakeholders landowners companies and governments are compelled to ensure that the benefits of any project are maximized while the negative risks are minimized Achieving such objectives means implementing programs which monitor and evaluate the ongoing effects of a project on the social and cultural lives of the impacted populace This book aims to provide a teaching and training resource for students social scientists anthropologists sociologists human geographers environmentalists engineers etc and indigenous personnel and operators who are tasked with community affairs programs in those countries where resource development projects are implemented The constituent chapters provide how to guides and frameworks that are generously illustrated with case studies drawn variously from North America and the Asia Pacific region Topics addressed include Legal Frameworks and Compliance Procedures Social Mapping Environmental Reports Social and Economic Impact Studies Social Monitoring Techniques Project Development Statistical Packages and Report Production This book is unique in so far as it seeks to prioritize application over theory Moreover it is the first training resource that is sensitive to non western indigenes need to assimilate and apply skills engendered by Western countries The Statesman's Yearbook 2005 B.
