Vanishing British Columbia Michael Kluckner, 2011-11-01 The old buildings and historic places of British Columbia form a kind of roadside memory a tangible link with stories of settlement change and abandonment that reflect the great themes of our history With small towns declining and old rural properties changing so little of the history of these places has been recorded in museums or archives and so much of it may disappear as families disperse and memories dim More than a decade ago Michael Kluckner began painting these dots on his personal map of the province in a watercolour sketchbook In 1999 after he put a few of the sketches on his website a network of correspondents emerged that eventually led him to the family letters photo albums and memories all from a disappearing era of the province Vanishing British Columbia is a record of these places and the stories they tell It combines engaging and insightful historical commentary with over 160 of the author's original paintings It has an exceptional assortment of historic imagery including old postcards architectural plans and photographs The study of roadside memory demonstrates the visceral connection that people especially those who are part of the rural to urban diaspora of modern times have for the sites of their family memories On a grander scale this approach leads to a broader understanding of more abstract historical themes and of the province's history and culture It also presents a compelling argument for stewardship of regional history in the face of urbanization and globalization

The Royal Fjord Ray Phillips, 2015-05-02 The most accessible and popular of British Columbia's great scenic fjords Jervis Inlet punches 60 kilometres into the Coast Mountains a day's cruising north of Vancouver It deserves to be called the Royal Fjord on two counts the long zigzagging watercourse is comprised of four segments all with royal names Prince of Wales Reach Princess Royal Reach Queen's Reach and Princess Louisa Inlet and second the inlet possesses a scenic majesty that has made it one of the prime boating destinations on the Inside Passage Author Earle Stanley Gardner was so moved by emergence of publishing ventures in France and Britain dedicated to the production of albums and travel accounts featuring images of Muslim Egypt and Islamic architecture and catering to a growing European fascination with the East Visualizing Egypt analyzes the context and process of production of these highly illustrated publications from their conceptualization to the finished product and its afterlife from marketing to the sales of these books and from circulation to their reception by nineteenth century audiences By tracing the long arduous and often risky publishing journeys of the makers of these books including publishers writers and artists such as the Frenchman mile Prisse d Avennes Paulina Banas reveals a complex terrain of changing market demands collaborations and conflicting views and the unsettled authorship of these works prompting us to think more profoundly about artistic and intellectual exchange in the world of nineteenth century Orientalist book production Visualizing Egypt considers nineteenth century book illustrations on Egypt and the Orient not merely as expressions of enduring ideology and colonial propaganda but as representations shaped by the often overlooked commercial exigencies of the growing publishing industry and the reckless competition within it
