China and the Writing of English Literary Modernity, 1690-1770 Eun Kyung Min, 2018-04-19 This book explores how a modern English literary identity was forged by its notions of other traditions and histories in particular those of China The theorizing and writing of English literary modernity took place in the midst of the famous quarrel between the Ancients and the Moderns Eun Kyung Min argues that this quarrel was in part a debate about the value of Chinese culture and that a complex cultural awareness of China shaped the development of a national literature in seventeenth and eighteenth century England by pushing to new limits questions of comparative cultural value and identity Writers including Defoe Addison Goldsmith and Percy wrote China into genres such as the novel the periodical paper the pseudo letter in the newspaper and anthologized collections of antique English poetry inventing new formal strategies to engage in this wide ranging debate about what defined modern English identity

Britain's Chinese Eye Elizabeth Chang, 2010-04-20 This book traces the intimate connections between Britain and China throughout the nineteenth century and argues for China's central impact on the British visual imagination Chang brings together an unusual group of primary sources to investigate how nineteenth century Britons looked at and represented Chinese people places and things and how in the process ethnographic geographic and aesthetic representations of China shaped British writers and artists vision of their own lives and experiences For many Britons China was much more than a geographical location it was also a way of seeing and being seen that could be either embraced as creative inspiration or rejected as contagious influence In both cases the idea of China's visual difference stood in negative contrast to Britain's evolving sense of the visual and literary real To better grasp what Romantic and Victorian writers artists and architects were doing at home we must also understand the foreign objects found in their midst and what they were looking at abroad Henry Foxall's Journals, 1816-1817 Jane Donovan,2022-08-09 This book introduces four journals that Henry Foxall 1758 1823 kept during a trip to the British Isles in 1816 1817 It provides unique primary source material extensively annotated for clarity and context Foxall s journals offer an eyewitness account of Methodist embourgeoisement and institutionalization as they were occurring They also provide some insight into the developing differences between American and British Methodism The journals contain information on recent technological innovations of the British Industrial Revolution and recount Foxall s interactions with a number of prominent persons both in British Methodism and outside it Because of Foxall s close relationship with Francis Asbury his status as an insider at the highest levels of American Methodism and his clear understanding of the British Methodism in which he was raised converted and first licensed as a local preacher his perspective is well informed and unique Eighteenth-century English Porcelain in the Collection of the Indianapolis Museum of Art Indianapolis Museum of Art,Catherine Beth Lippert,1987 This very thorough catalogue with excellent footnotes and bibliography firmly places the subject in its broadest context Apollo Covers approximately 95 pieces representing Chelsea Bow Derby Worcester Chamberlain Worcester Caughley Longton Hall Spode and Hilditch and Sons The Art of Ceramics Howard Coutts,2001-01-01 The great age of European ceramic design began around 1500 and ended in the early 19th century with the introduction of large scale production of ceramics In this illustrated history with nearly 300 color and black and white photos and reproductions curator Howard Coutts considers the main stylistic trends Renaissance Mannerism Oriental Rococo and Neoclassicism as they were represented in such products as Italian Majolica Dutch Delftware Meissen and S vres porcelain Staffordshire and Wedgwood pottery He pays close attention to changes in eating habits over the period particularly the layout of a formal dinner and discusses the development of ceramics as room decoration the transmission of images via prints marketing of ceramics and other luxury goods and the intellectual background to Neoclassicism Ceramics in the Victorian Era Rachel Gotlieb,2023-06-29 This book broadens the discussion of pottery and china in the Victorian era by situating them in the national imperial design reform and domestic debates between 1840 and 1890 Largely ignored in recent scholarship Ceramics in the Victorian Era Meanings and Metaphors in Painting and Literature argues that the signification of a pot a jug or a tableware pattern can be more fully discerned in written and painted representations Across five case studies the book explores a rhetoric and set of conventions that developed within the representation of ceramics emerging in the late 18th century and continuing in the Victorian period Each case study begins with a textual passage exemplifying the outlined theme and closes with an object analysis to demonstrate how the fusing of text image and object are critical to attaining the period eye in order to better understand the metaphorical meanings of ceramics Essential reading not only for ceramics scholars but also those of material culture the book mines the rich and diverse archive of Victorian painting and literature

Archaeologies of the Contemporary Past Victor Buchli, Gavin Lucas, 2002-01-04 Archaeologies of the Contemporary Past turns what is usually seen as a method for investigating the distant past onto the present In doing so it reveals fresh ways of looking both at ourselves and modern society as well as the discipline of archaeology This volume represents the most recent research in this area and examines a variety of contexts including Art Deco landfills miner strikes college fraternities an abandoned council house Alimentary Orientalism Yin Yuan, 2023-06-16 What exactly did tea sugar and opium mean in eighteenth and nineteenth century Britain Alimentary Orientalism reassesses the politics of Orientalist representation by examining the contentious debates surrounding these exotic recently popularized and literally consumable things It suggests that the interwoven discourses sparked by these commodities transformed the period s literary Orientalism and created surprisingly self reflexive ways through which British writers encountered and imagined cultural otherness Tracing exotic ingestion as a motif across a range of authors and genres this book considers how why and whither writers used scenes of eating drinking and smoking to diagnose and interrogate their own solipsistic constructions of the Orient As national and cultural boundaries became increasingly porous such self reflexive inquiries into the nature and role of otherness provided an unexpected avenue for British imperial subjectivity to emerge and coalesce Exploring the Archaeology of the Modern City in Nineteenth-century Australia Tim Murray, Penny Crook, 2019-11-05 This book presents research into the urban archaeology of 19th century Australia It focuses on the detailed archaeology of 20 cesspits in The Rocks area of Sydney and the Commonwealth Block site in Melbourne It also includes discussions of a significant site in Sydney First Government House The book is anchored around a detailed comparison of contents of 20 cesspits created during the 19th century and examines patterns of similarity and dissimilarity presenting analyses that work towards an integration of historical and archaeological data and perspectives The book also outlines a transnational framework of comparison that assists in the larger context related to building a truly global archaeology of the modern city This framework is directly related a multi scalar approach to urban archaeology Historical archaeologists have been advocating the need to explore the archaeology of the modern city using several different scales or frames of reference The most popular and most basic of these has been the household However it has also been acknowledged that interpreting the archaeology of households beyond the notion that every household and associated archaeological assemblage is unique requires archaeologists and historians to compare and contrast and to establish patterns These comparisons frequently occur at the level of the area or district in the same city where archaeologists seek to derive patterns that might be explained as being the result of status class ethnicity or ideology Other less frequent comparisons occur at larger scales for example between cities or countries acknowledging that the archaeology of the modern western city is also the archaeology of modern global forces of production consumption trade immigration and ideology formation This book makes a contribution to that general literature

International Handbook of Historical Archaeology Teresita Majewski, David Gaimster, 2009-06-07 In studying the past archaeologists have focused on the material remains of our ancestors Prehistorians generally have only artifacts to study and rely on the diverse material record for their understanding of past societies and their behavior Those involved in studying historically documented cultures not only have extensive material remains but also contemporary texts images and a range of investigative technologies to enable them to build a broader and more reflexive picture of how past societies communities and individuals operated and behaved Increasingly historical archaeology refers not to a particular period place or a method but rather an approach that interrogates the tensions between artifacts and texts irrespective of context In short historical archaeology provides direct evidence for how humans have shaped the world we live in today Historical archaeology is a branch of global archaeology that has grown in the last 40 years from its North American base into an increasingly global community of archaeologists each studying their area of the world in a historical context Where historical archaeology started as part of the study of the post Columbian societies of the United States and Canada it has now expanded to interface with the post medieval archaeologies of Europe and the diverse post imperial experiences of Africa Latin America and Australasia The 36 essays in the International Handbook of Historical Archaeology have been specially commissioned from the leading researchers in their fields creating a wide ranging digest of the increasingly global field of historical archaeology The volume is divided into two sections the first reviewing the key themes issues and approaches of historical archaeology today and the second containing a series of case studies charting the development and current state of historical archaeological practice around the world This key reference work captures the energy and diversity of this global discipline today
