Spaces and Places in Motion Nicole Schröder, 2006

In the Belly of a Laughing God Jennifer Andrews, 2011-12-15 How can humour and irony in writing both create and destroy boundaries In the Belly of a Laughing God examines how eight contemporary Native women poets in Canada and the United States Joy Harjo Louise Halfe Kimberley Blaeser Marilyn Dumont Diane Glancy Jeannette Armstrong Wendy Rose and Marie Annharte Baker employ humour and irony to address the intricacies of race gender and nationality While recognizing that humour and irony are often employed as methods of resistance this careful analysis also acknowledges the ways that they can be used to assert or restore order Using the framework of humour and irony five themes emerge from the words of these poets religious transformations generic transformations history memory and the nation photography and representational visibility and land and the significance of home Through the double voice discourse of irony and the textual surprises of humour these poets challenge hegemonic renderings of themselves and their cultures even as they enforce their own cultural norms Critical Memory Studies Brett Ashley Kaplan, 2023-04-06 Bringing together a diverse array of new and established scholars and creative writers in the rapidly expanding field of memory studies this collection creatively delves into the multiple aspects of this wide ranging field Contributors explore race ing memory environmental studies and memory digital memory monuments memorials and museums and memory and trauma Organised around 7 sections this book examines memory in a global context from Kashmir and Chile to the US and UK Featuring contributions on topics such as the Black Lives Matter movement the AIDS crisis and memory and the anthropocene this book traces and consolidates the field while analysing and charting some of the most current and cutting edge work as well as new directions that could be taken The West Side of Any Mountain J. Scott Bryson, 2005-04-01 In contrast to nature poets of the past who tended more toward the bucolic and pastoral many contemporary nature poets are taking up radical environmental and ecological themes In the last few years interesting and evocative work that examines this poetry has begun to lay the foundation for studies in ecopoetics Informed in general by current thinking in environmental theory and specifically by the work of cultural geographer Yi Fu Tuan The West Side of Any Mountain participates in and furthers this scholarly attention by offering an overarching theoretical framework with which to approach the field One area that contemporary theorists have found problematic is the dualistic civilization wilderness binary that focuses on the divisions between culture and nature thereby increasing the modern sense of alienation Tuan s place space framework offers a succinct vocabulary for describing the attitudes of ecological poets and other nature writers in a way that avoids setting up an adversarial relationship between place and space Scott Bryson describes the Tuanian framework and employs it to offer fresh readings of the work of four major ecopoets Wendell Berry Joy Harjo Mary Oliver and W S Merwin The West Side of Any Mountain will be of great interest to scholars and teachers working in the field of contemporary nature poetry It is recommended for nature writing courses as well as classes dealing with 20th century poetry contemporary literary criticism and environmental theory Discrete Systems with Memory Ramon Alonso-Sanz, 2011 Memory is a universal function of organized matter What is the mathematics of memory How does memory affect the space time behaviour of spatially extended systems Does memory increase complexity This book provides answers to these questions It focuses on the study of spatially extended systems i e cellular automata and other related discrete complex systems Thus arrays of locally connected finite state machines or cells update their states simultaneously in discrete time by the same transition rule The classical dynamics in these systems is Markovian only the actual configuration is taken into account to generate the next one Generalizing the conventional view on spatially extended discrete dynamical systems evolution by allowing cells or nodes to be featured by some trait state computed as a function of its own previous state values the transition maps of the classical systems are kept unaltered so that the effect of memory can be easily traced The book demonstrates that discrete dynamical systems with memory are not only priceless tools for modeling natural phenomena but unique mathematical and aesthetic objects Models of Human Memory Donald A. Norman, 2013-10-22 Models of Human Memory provides an overview of the state of knowledge on human memory models The book begins with an introductory chapter on the basic stages of the memory system and the historical roots of memory models The remaining chapters are organized into five parts Part I on memory systems covers topics such as a system for perception and memory multi trace strength theory of memory and a model for postperceptual verbal memory that postulates a single memory store with multiple copies called replicas created in memory by rehearsal processes Part II presents studies phoneme storage and word recognition Part III on memory for associations examines the storage retrieval theory for the memorizing processes and presents simple model of short term memory STM for paired associates Part IV on storage and retrieval mechanisms deals with mechanisms of repetition and rehearsal in short term memory models of recall and recognition and memory search models Part V presents a theory of human long term associative memory and examines conceptual and methodological interactions between information processing investigations of cognitive activity and attempts to build models of memory aerospace engineering robots automatic machines clothes and recycling for research design and manufacturing Alfred Hitchcock's Vertigo and the Hermeneutic Spiral Robert J. Belton, 2017-07-12 This book offers a new approach to film studies by showing how our brains use our interpretations of various other films in order to understand Alfred Hitchcock's Vertigo Borrowing from behavioral psychology cognitive science and philosophy author Robert J Belton seeks to explain differences of critical opinion as inevitable The book begins by introducing the hermeneutic spiral a cognitive processing model that categorizes responses to Vertigo's meaning ranging from wide consensus to wild speculations of critical outliers Belton then provides an overview of the film arguing that different interpreters literally see and attend to different things The fourth chapter builds on this conclusion arguing that because people see different things one can force the production of new meanings by deliberately drawing attention to unusual comparisons The latter chapters outline a number of such comparisons including avant garde films and the works of Stanley Kubrick and David Lynch to shed new light on the meanings of Vertigo Shape Memory Implants L.
