Spirits in the Field Bruce Hopkins, 2003 Stories of the Hopkins and Prater families who lived around Greasy Creek in Pike Cemeteries and the Life of a Smoky Mountain Community Gary S. Foster, William E. Lovekamp, 2019-07-04 In one of the few studies to draw upon cemetery data to reconstruct the social organization social change and community composition of a specific area this volume contributes to the growing body of sociohistorical examinations of Appalachia The authors herein reconstruct the Cades Cove community in the Great Smoky Mountains of Tennessee USA a mountain community from circa 1818 to 1939 whose demise can be traced to the establishment of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park By supplementing a statistical analysis of Cades Cove s twenty seven cemeteries completed as a National Park Study GRSM 01120 with ethnographic examination the authors reconstruct the community in detail to reveal previously overlooked social patterns and interactions including insight into the death culture and death lore of the Upland South This work establishes cemeteries as window into proxies of communities demonstrating the relevance of socio demographic data presented by statistical and other analyses of gravestones for Appalachian Studies Regional Studies Cemetery Studies and Sociology and Anthropology Geography of Time, Place, Movement and Networks, Volume 5 Stanley D. Brunn, 2024-05-27 This book investigates both early as well as recent accounts of journeys by women and families in African Asian East European North and Latin American contexts It discusses how places place settings and transport routes whether by land sea or air were and remain important in the impacts these newcomers have on states and regions The contributions to this book provide insight in laws and regulations related to women s and refugees rights They highlight the importance of place and location in defining rights and implementing reforms such as the importance of the politics and the state in identifying rights in global contexts of refugee resettlement cross border employment security and reshaping human institutions as well as the changing legal landscape related to for instance women participating in the Olympic Games and in national sports The book also touches on the worlds of family landscapes mapping family trees family cemeteries and redefining immigrant city mixes As such the book offers readers to explore past present and future issues faced by women and families regardless of place or country Fractured Communities Anthony E. Ladd, 2018-03-23 While environmental disputes and conflicts over fossil fuel extraction have grown in recent years few issues have been as contentious in the twenty first century as those surrounding the impacts of unconventional natural gas and oil development using hydraulic drilling and fracturing techniques more commonly known as fracking on local communities In Fractured Communities Anthony E Ladd and other leading environmental sociologists present a set of crucial case studies analyzing the differential risk perceptions socio environmental impacts and mobilization of citizen protest or quiescence surrounding unconventional energy development and hydraulic fracking in a number of key U S shale regions Fractured Communities reveals how this contested terrain is expanding pushing the issue of fracking into the mainstream of the American political arena
