The Submarine Duncan Redford, 2010-07-30 Underhand and damned un English was the view of submarines in Edwardian Britain Yet by the 1960s the new nuclear powered submarines were seen by the Royal Navy as being the hallmark of a first class navy In this book Duncan Redford a retired Royal Navy submarine officer explores how and why attitudes to the submarine changed in Britain between 1900 and 1977 Using a wide array of previously unpublished sources Redford sheds light on what the British thought about submarines both their own and those that were used against them Rather than providing an operational history of Britain's submarines this book looks at naval and civilian conceptions of what submarine warfare was imagined to be like in the context of unrestricted submarine warfare the world wars and the development of nuclear weaponry With chapters on the coronation and jubilee reviews at Spithead the submarine in novels and films as well as coverage of the Royal Navy's and civilian views of submarines and submarine warfare this book gives a comprehensive view of the British regard or lack of it for the submarine Through the examination of the British relationship with submarines since 1900 it is possible to see changing patterns in acceptance and tensions between different sub cultures both civil and maritime Since 1900 the meaning constructed around submarines has changed as the submarine has progressed along a road from perdition as the weapon of the weaker power and morally weaker power too to a form of redemption as a major capital unit This book will be essential for naval historians students and those interested in aspects of submarine development and use

Master & Madman Peter Thomas, Nicholas Tracy, 2012-03-05 Anthony Lockwood's story is at the heart of the Georgian Navy though the man himself has never taken centre stage in its history His naval career described by himself as twenty five years incessant peregrination followed a somewhat erratic course but almost exactly spanned the period of the French wars and the War of 1812 Lockwood was commended for bravery in action against the French was present at the Spithead Mutiny shipwrecked and imprisoned in France appointed master attendant of the naval yard at Bridgetown Barbados during the year the slave trade was abolished and served as an hydrographer before beginning his three year marine survey of Nova Scotia and the Bay of Fundy Against the odds he managed to finesse a treasury appointment as Surveyor General of New Brunswick and became the right hand man of the Governor General Smyth Deeply ingrained in his character however was a democratic determination that was out of step with the authoritarian character of the Navy and the aristocratic one of New Brunswick His expectation of social justice verged on madness and when he finally succumbed to lunacy it was in the defence of democracy The turbulence of the times inspired Lockwood to stage a one man coup d'état which ended with him being jailed and shipped back to London to live out his days as a pensioner and mental patient Truly a dramatic rise and a tragic fall
