Intercultural Learning in Modern Language Education Erin Kearney, 2015-12-03 Winner of the 2015 16 Kenneth W Mildenberger Prize awarded by the Modern Language Association Many educators aim to engage students in deeply meaningful learning in the language classroom often facing challenges to connect the students with the culture of the language they are learning This book aims to demonstrate that substantial intercultural learning can and does occur in the modern language classroom and explores the features of the classroom that support meaningful culture in language learning The author argues that transformative modern language education is intimately tied to a view of language learning as an engagement in meaning making activity or semiotic practice The empirical evidence presented is analyzed and then linked to both the theorizing of culture in language teaching and to practical concerns of teaching

Implementing Cross-Culture Pedagogies Pham Thi Hong Thanh, 2013-11-27 During the last two decades Confucian heritage culture countries have widely promoted teaching and learning reforms to advance their educational systems To skip the painfully long research stage Confucian heritage culture educators have borrowed Western philosophies and practices with the assumption that what has been done successfully in the West will produce similar outcomes in the East The wide importation of cooperative learning practices to Confucian heritage culture classrooms recently is an example However cooperative learning has been documented in many studies not to work effectively in Confucian heritage culture classrooms The reason is that the educators often impose this instructional method on the students without a careful consideration of its appropriateness in the socio cultural context of Confucian heritage culture countries This procedure is not effective and professional because learning does not stand alone Rather it is shaped and influenced by other factors including teaching methods learning tasks assessment demands workload and the learning culture of students in the local context For cooperative learning to work effectively in Confucian heritage culture classrooms reformers need to consider the importation of this approach in line with a careful examination of all supports and constraints that affect those factors that are associated with learning The volume provides an applied theoretical framework and culturally appropriate and practical instructions that could assist Confucian heritage culture educators and teachers to address various factors at multiple levels in order to optimize success in importing cooperative learning to their classrooms Overall it provides strategies to assist Confucian heritage culture teachers to change their teaching practices redesign lessons plans design assessment methods and organize learning activities in a manner that can influence Confucian heritage culture students to shift from employing teacher centered learning approaches to cooperative learning

Team Teaching and Team Learning in the Language Classroom

Akira Tajino,Tim Stewart,David Dalsky,2015-12-14 This book reignites discussion on the importance of collaboration and innovation in language education The pivotal difference highlighted in this volume is the concept of team learning through collaborative relationships such as team teaching It explores ways in which team learning happens in ELT environments and what emerges from these explorations is a more robust concept of team learning in language education Coupled with this deeper understanding the value of participant research is emphasised by defining the notion of team to include all participants in the educational experience Authors in this volume position practice ahead of theory as they struggle to make sense of the complex phenomena of language teaching and learning The focus of this book is on the nexus between ELT theory and practice as viewed through the lens of collaboration The volume aims to add to the current knowledge base in order to bridge the theory practice gap regarding collaboration for innovation in language classrooms Handbook for Arabic Language Teaching Professionals in the 21st Century, Volume II Kassem M.
