Holyoke, M.

Gabriel Hrynicky, 2022-03-22 The Far Northeast 3000 BP to Contact is the first volume to synthesize archaeological research from across Atlantic Canada and northern New England for the period spanning from 3000 years ago to European contact. Recently notions of the Woodland period in the broader Northeast have drawn scrutiny from experts due to increasing awareness that its hallmarks such as horticulture, village formation, mortuary ceremonialism and the advent of various technologies appear to be less synchronous than once thought. By paying particular attention to the Far Northeast and its unique yet sometimes marginal position in Woodland discourse, this work offers a much needed in depth look at one of the best documented cases of hunter gatherer persistence and adaptation at the eve of European contact. Penned by academic government and cultural resource management archaeologists, the seventeen chapters in The Far Northeast 3000 BP to Contact draw on decades of research in considering this period both in terms of variability within the region and integration with broader cultural patterns in the Northeast and beyond.

Published in English Lifelines Tim Palmer, 2004-01-29 The health of our nation is reflected in the health of our rivers. These flowing streams supply our drinking water and they sustain the biological wealth of the continent. Central to our past and vital to our future, rivers are the lifelines yet they are constantly under siege. In Lifelines Tim Palmer addresses the fate of our waterways. While proposals for destructive federal dams are no longer common and some of the worst pollution has been brought under control, myriad other concerns have appeared, many of them more complex than threats of the past. Now we face increased diversion of flows, loss of riparian habitat and pollution from toxic waste, feedlots, farms and clearcuts. Palmer examines the alarming condition of rivers in today's world and reports on what people are doing to solve the challenging problems. In many stories of hope, he chronicles the success of citizens and government agencies working for better stewardship and pioneering new ways of caring for our waters and land. Finally, he considers what the future will hold for these critical lifelines. According to Palmer, caring for rivers as centerpieces of local ecosystems marks a hopeful starting point toward better care for the planet.
