Tastes of the Divine Michelle Voss, 2014-06-16 The intensity and meaningfulness of aesthetic experience have often been described in theological terms By designating basic human emotions as rasa a word that connotes taste flavor or essence Indian aesthetic theory conceptualizes emotional states as something to be savored At their core emotions can be tastes of the divine In this book the methods of the emerging discipline of comparative theology enable the author's appreciation of Hindu texts and practices to illuminate her Christian reflections on aesthetics and emotion Three emotions vie for prominence in the religious sphere peace love and fury Whereas Indian theorists following Abhinavagupta claim that the aesthetic emotion of peace best approximates the goal of religious experience devotees of Krishna and medieval Christian readings of the Song of Songs argue that love communicates most powerfully with divinity In response to the transcendence emphasized in both approaches the book turns to fury at injustice to attend to emotion's foundations in the material realm The implications of this constructive theology of emotion for Christian liturgy pastoral care and social engagement are manifold

The Taste of Nostalgia Amy Cox Hall, 2024-11-26 An exploration of gender race and food in Peru in the 1950s and 1960s and today From the late 1940s to the mid 1960s Peru's rapid industrialization and anti communist authoritarianism coincided with the rise of mass produced cookbooks the first televised cooking shows glossy lifestyle magazines and imported domestic appliances and foodstuffs Amy Cox Hall's The Taste of Nostalgia uses taste as a thematic and analytic thread to examine the ways that women race and the kitchen were foundational to Peruvian longings for modernity both during the Cold War and today Drawing on interviews personal stories media images and archival and ethnographic research Cox Hall considers how elite European descended women and the urban home were central to Peru's modernizing project and finds that all women who labored within the deeply racialized and gendered world of food helped set the stage for a Peruvian food nationalism that is now global in the twenty first century Cox Hall skillfully connects how the sometimes unsavory tastes of the past are served again in today's profitable and pervasive gastronostalgia that helps sell Peru and its cuisine both at home and abroad

set in motion the first great wave of globalization In the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries the world's peoples were irrevocably brought together as a result of the spice trade Before the great voyages of discovery Venice controlled the business in Eastern seasonings and thereby became medieval Europe's most cosmopolitan urban center Driven to dominate this trade Portugal's mariners pioneered sea routes to the New World and around the Cape of Good Hope to India to unseat Venice as Europe's chief pepper dealer Then in the 1600s the savvy businessmen of Amsterdam invented the modern corporation the Dutch East India Company and took over as spice merchants to the world Sharing meals and stories with Indian pepper planters Portuguese sailors and Venetian foodies Krondl takes every opportunity to explore the world of long ago and sample its many flavors The spice trade and its cultural exchanges didn't merely lend kick to the traditional Venetian cookies called peverini or add flavor to Portuguese sausages of every description or even make the Indonesian rice table more popular than Chinese takeout in trendy Amsterdam No the taste for spice of a few wealthy Europeans led to great crusades astonishing feats of bravery and even wholesale slaughter As stimulating as it is pleasurable and filled with surprising insights The Taste of Conquest offers a fascinating perspective on how in search of a tastier dish the world has been transformed
