Education Policies Curtis Mason,2020-02-01 The launching of Sputnik in 1957 sparked an education movement that stressed the importance of curricular rigor and standardization as a means to improve education and bolster national defense Within six months of Sputnik s launch Congress passed the National Defense Education Act NDEA that approved an unprecedented amount of federal funding toward the math science and foreign language disciplines The teaching of English was left out and through the leadership of the National Council of Teachers of English NCTE the discipline maneuvered public relations and political connections in its quest to acquire federal funds In doing so the NCTE mimicked strategies that galvanized funding for math science and foreign language disciplines by arguing the importance of the teaching of English for national security and advocating for a teaching model that aligned with Cold War Era pedagogical trends These tactics marked a major shift in how the NCTE advocated for the teaching of English In the early twentieth century the organization embraced student centered education practices connected to the ideas of progressive educators This perspective continued with the creation and expansion of life adjustment education during the 1930s and 40s During this era many NCTE authors recommended this movement that advocated connecting education to future adult experiences Following Sputnik NCTE leaders supported content centered reforms Instead of curriculum recommendations based in discovering and fostering relevant student experiences the NCTE s focus became adjusting student learning to predefined skills it thought all students should possess This trend was supported by conceptions of Cold War education models including those advocated by their rival English organization the Modern Language Association MLA The MLA had successfully worked with federal actors in attaining funding for foreign language training institutes and the NCTE s collaboration with the MLA represented a shift in adopting ideas it was previously opposed to promoting Despite their efforts the NCTE was not a part of NDEA reauthorization in 1961 the federal government led by U S Commissioner of Education Sterling McMurrin funded teacher training institutes for the study of English through a program called Project English The 1960s continued with the NCTE representing stronger content centered ideas before shifting in less than a decade as indicated by the materials produced by the 1966 AngloAmerican Conference on English at Dartmouth Here NCTE leaders reassessed their beliefs after meeting with British educators who advocated student centered curriculum models and reintroduced benefits of experiential education These ideas would manifest into studentcentered curriculum models during the late 1960s and 1970s Teaching
