The Old Testament and the Fine Arts Cynthia Pearl Maus, 1954 Anthology on the Old Testament and the Fine Arts
The Old Testament in Art Rena Neumann Coen, 1970 Critical descriptions accompany photographic reproductions of paintings and sculpture depicting stories of the Old Testament
Pride & Persecution Robert Wenley, Nina Cahill, Rosalie van Gulick, Barber Institute of Fine Arts, 2017 Full of humanity and even humour the Old Testament paintings by master visual storyteller Jan Steen are often treated like incidents in 17th century Holland This groundbreaking examination considers the influence of Jewish history and Dutch theatre on this exciting element of his oeuvre The Leiden born artist Jan Steen 1626 1679 is widely admired as one of the most engaging and technically brilliant painters of the Dutch Golden Age This volume accompanies an exhibition that will be the first in the UK devoted to Steen's Old Testament subjects The focal point will be his magnificent Wrath of Ahasuerus c 1668 69 one of the highlights of the Barber's collection which will be joined by a number of other paintings by Steen from private and public collections across the world Three essays will examine the core themes of the show the role of Jewish history in Steen's Old Testament scenes the influence of Dutch theatre on his work and the critical response to his Old Testament paintings from the 17th century to date Robert Wenley Barber Institute of Fine Arts will look at how the Dutch nation established its identity in part by associating its people with the Biblical Israelites seeing themselves as persecuted by the Spanish for their faith He will explore the popularity of the story of Esther and other Old Testament subjects in Dutch culture in plays as well as paintings and the possibility of Jewish patrons for Steen's Old Testament paintings Nina Cahill University of Kassel will put forward new research about how Steen adopted the gestural language of contemporary Dutch theatre amateur and professional in order to represent the key figures in these scenes and to convey the pivotal dramatic moments In some instances Steen may have been quoting from an actual production of a play based on the Biblical story Rosalie van Gulick Utrecht University will consider how Steen's Old Testament scenes have been received and understood over the years She will investigate how the apparent farcical character of these scenes has been understood over the centuries and why they have prompted adversely critical responses from some modern art historians
