The Other 23 Hours Child Care Work With Emotionally Disturbed Children In A:

The Other 23 Hours Larry Brendtro, 2017-07-26 Among other revolutionary developments of today's world is the so called knowledge explosion. So much is being written so fast about so many things that it is becoming well nigh irretrievable. One consequently can never be sure that he knows what there is to know about many kinds of phenomena or types of problems existing in the modern world due to the chance that something exists in written form that simply cannot be found so bulky is the load of literature. The common idea that only the sick child and never the well needs special emotional supports and helps from the adult is simply an error. For the well child is not immune from pile ups of severe emotional intensity when overwhelmed by confusion and conflicts from within. Certainly the normal kid can be expected to handle such crises either from within or without better than his sick peer on the average but that does not mean always and the critical issue for the well child is is he ready at the time they hit. If not he needs quite unmistakably emotional first aid from the adult parent teacher camp counselor or what have you who is in charge of his life at that moment. The reader will find that what the authors describe in The Other 23 Hours as the everyday requirement diet as far as child handling is concerned for their disturbed children is transferable to the normal crises of normal childhood. The Other 23 Hours Albert E. TRIESCHMAN,

The Child Welfare Challenge James K. Whittaker, 2017-07-12 Within a historical and contemporary context this book examines major policy practice and research issues as they jointly shape child welfare practice and its future. In addition to describing the major problems facing the field the book highlights service innovations that have been developed in recent years. The resulting picture is encouraging especially if certain major program reforms are implemented and agencies are able to concentrate resources in a focused manner The volume emphasizes families and children whose primary recourse to services has been through publicly funded child welfare agencies The book considers historical areas of service foster care and adoptions in home family centered services child protective services and residential services where social work has an important role Authors address the many fields of practice in which child and family services are provided or that involve substantial numbers of social work programs such as services to adolescent parents child mental health education and juvenile justice agencies This new edition will continue to serve as a fundamental introduction for new practitioners as well as summary of recent developments for experienced practitioners

Effective Participatory Practice Marie Connolly, Margaret MacKenzie, 1998-12-31 In 1989 New Zealand formalized the social work trend toward involving the family in child protection decision making processes Central to this legislation is the Family Group Conference based on indigenous Maori decision making practices Connolly social work U of Canterbury New Zealand and McKenzie community and family studies U of Otago New Zealand discuss the social construction of family decision making the country's experience with this empowering model international adaptations and the necessity of a sound theoretical basis which they provide in their Effective Participatory Practice model exemplified in two case studies Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR The Handbook of Trauma-Transformative Practice Joe Tucci, Janise Mitchell, Stephen W. Porges, Edward C Tronick, 2024-02-21 The definitive Handbook of Trauma Transformative Practice brings together the work of leading international trauma experts to provide a detailed overview of trauma informed practice and intervention its history the latest frameworks for practice and an inspiring vision for future trauma transformative practice The Handbook is interdisciplinary incorporating trauma research interpersonal neuroscience the historical and continuing experiences of victims and survivors and insights from practitioners It addresses a range of current issues spanning polyvagal theory the social brain oxytocin and the healing power of love and the neuropsychological roots of shame It also considers trauma through the lens of communities with chapters on healing intergenerational trauma and building communities capacity to end interpersonal violence Furthermore the Handbook makes the case for a new way of thinking about trauma trauma transformative practice One which is founded on the principle of working with the whole person and as part of a network of relationships rather than focusing on symptoms to improve practice healing and recovery

Building Community Capacity Robert J. Chaskin, This book focuses on a gap in current social work practice theory community change Much work in this area of macro practice particularly around grassroots community organizing has a somewhat dated feel to it is highly ideological in orientation or suffers from superficiality particularly in the area of theory and practical application Set against the context of an often narrowly constructed clinical emphasis on practice education coupled with social work's own current rendering of scientific management community practice often takes second or third billing in many professional curricula despite its deep roots in the overall field of social welfare Drawing on extensive case study data from three significant community building initiatives program data from numerous other community capacity building efforts key informant interviews and an excellent literature review Chaskin and his colleagues draw implications for crafting community change strategies as well as for creating and sustaining the organizational infrastructure necessary to support them The authors bring to bear the perspectives of a variety of professional disciplines including sociology urban planning psychology and social work Building Community Capacity takes a collaborative interdisciplinary approach to a subject of wide and current concern the role of neighborhood and community structures in the delivery of human services or as the authors put it a place where programs and problems can be fitted together Social work scholars and students of community practice seeking new conceptual frameworks and insights from research to inform novel community interventions will find much of value in Building Community Capacity

The Professionalization of Poverty Gary R. Lowe, P. Nelson Reid, The essays in this book discuss the evolution of the profession of social work in the twentieth century Its specific focus is the relationship of the professional social worker to the poor Attempting to avoid the usual retelling of the standard narrative of the social work profession The Professionalization of Poverty provides a perspective that goes beyond the typical boundaries of liberal conservative paradigms and suggests that social work incorporate intellectual and methodological elements compatible with both
