The Forbidden Woman Linterdite European Women Writers Ser:

The Forbidden Woman Malika Mokeddem, 1998-01-01 After the war of independence against France an Algerian woman returns to her village to discover the revolution is being betrayed Moslem fundamentalists are turning back the clock on women's rights

Exiles, Travellers and Vagabonds, 2016-10-20 Travel writing migrant writing exile writing expatriate writing and even the fictional travelling protagonists that emerge in literary works from around the globe have historically tended to depict mobility as a masculine phenomenon The presence of such genres in women's writing however poses a rich and unique body of work This volume examines the texts of Francophone women who have experienced or reflected upon the experience of transnational movement Due to the particularity of their relationship to home and the consequent impact of this on their experience of displacement the study of women's mobility opens up new questions in our understanding of the movement from place to place and in our broader understanding of colonial and postcolonial worlds Addressing the proximities and overlaps that exist between the experiences of women exiles migrants expatriates and travellers the collected essays in this book seek to challenge the usefulness relevance or validity of such terms for conceptualising today's complex patterns of transnational mobility and the gendered identities produced therein

Front Cover Iconography and Algerian Women's Writing Pamela A. Pears, 2015-10-29 The front covers of books written by Algerian women serve as the primary source of investigation in Front Cover Iconography and Algerian Women Writers These covers have implications that extend beyond selling the book What we see on one side of the page or in this case the cover recto controls what we read on the reverse in this case the text itself verso Using theories of the paratext including those of Gérard Genette and Jonathan Gray this book determines how four dominant iconographies used on the covers of Algerian women's writing Orientalist art the veil the desert and the author portrait work with and against the texts they represent These images have an impact on the initial reception of the book but beyond that book covers determine how both the informed and uninformed reader categorize and interpret francophone Algerian women's writing in France and beyond As the covers help to sell the works they also produce messages represented via their iconographies that embed themselves into the texts A sometimes explicit and at the very least implicit dialog between the visual paratextual representation and the written textual one is created a dialog that extends beyond the life of the physical book to a sort of canonical paradigm for reading these authors works Thus even if the cover image appears ephemeral it never truly disappears Its powerful control over critical reception and ultimately interpretation of francophone Algerian women's writing remains

Polygraphies Alison Rice, 2012 Coinciding with the fiftieth anniversary of Algeria's independence Polygraphies is significant and timely in its focus on autobiographical writings by seven of the most prominent francophone women writers from Algeria today including Maïssa Bey Hélène Cixous Assia Djebar and Malika Mokeddem These authors witnessed both the before and after of the colonial experience in their land and their fictional and theoretical texts testify to the lasting impact of this history From a variety of personal perspectives and backgrounds each writer addresses linguistic religious and racial issues of crucial contemporary importance in Algeria Alison Rice engages their work from a range of disciplines striving both to heighten our sensitivity to the plurality inherent in their texts and to move beyond a true false dichotomy to a wealth of possible truths all communicated in writing

Exile and Nomadism in French and Hispanic Women's Writing Kate Averis, 2017-07-05 Women in exile disrupt assumptions about exile belonging home and identity For many women exile home represents less a place of belonging and more a point of departure and exile becomes a creative site of becoming rather than an unsettling state of errancy Exile may be a propitious circumstance for women to renegotiate identities far from the strictures of home appropriating a new freedom in mobility Through a feminist politics of place displacement and subjectivity this comparative study analyses the novels of key contemporary Francophone and Latin American writers Nancy Huston Linda Le Malika Mokeddem Cristina Peri Rossi Laura Restrepo and Cristina Siscar to identify a new nomadic subjectivity in the lives and works of transnational women today

Women's Writing in Twenty-First-Century France Gill Rye, Amaleena Damlé, 2013-04-15 Women's Writing in Twenty First Century France is a collection of critical essays on recent women authored literature in France It takes stock of the themes issues and trends in women's writing of the first decade of the twenty first century and it engages critically with the work of individual authors through close textual readings Authors covered include major prizewinners best selling authors established and new writers whose work attracts scholarly attention including those whose texts have been translated into English such as Christine Angot Nina Bouraoui Marie Darrieussecq as Chlo Delaume Claudie Gallay and Anna Gavalda Themes include translation popular fiction society history war family relations violence trauma the body racial identity sexual identity feminism life writing and textual aesthetic experiments Interconnecting Translation Studies and Imagology Luc van Doorslaer, Peter Flynn, Joep Leerssen, 2016-02-25 Isn't translation all about saying exactly the same thing in another language Aren't national images totally outdated in this era of globalization Most people might agree but this book amply illustrates how persistent and multifaceted clichés on translation and nation can be Time and again translating involves making transfer choices and these choices are never neutral Though globalization has seemingly all but erased national ideologies and cultural borders such ideologies and borders continue to play a determining role in conflicts identity politics and cultural profiles The place where transfer choices and forms of national and cultural representation come together is also the place where Translation Studies and Imagology meet This book offers a wealth of chapters showing how decisive selection and transfer processes can be in representing national images both self images and images of the others It shows also how intensely the two disciplines can work together and mutually benefit from shared data and methodologies Book Review Digest ,2000
