Death, Society, and Human Experience Robert Kastenbaum, Christopher M. Moreman, 2024-03-28 The 13th edition of Death Society and Human Experience provides a panoramic overview of the ways that we are touched by death and dying both as individuals and as members of society A landmark text in the field the authors draw on contributions from the social and behavioral sciences as well as the humanities including perspectives offered through history philosophy religion literature and the arts to provide thorough coverage and understanding of topics associated with the end of life and death and dying By approaching the subject from multiple angles the authors explain the various ways that individual cultural and societal attitudes influence both how and when we die and how we live and deal with the knowledge of death and loss Originally written by Robert Kastenbaum a renowned scholar who developed one of the world's first death education courses Christopher M Moreman who has worked in the field of death studies for two decades has updated this edition In addition to infusing his close areas of focus both in afterlife beliefs and experiences and how these might affect how people live their lives he's weaved in new coverage of current affairs including The impact of COVID 19 on experiences of death bereavement mourning and more Expanded legalization of physician assisted dying in the United States and several countries Changes in bereavement rituals and traditions stemming from technology use and social media With additional content and classroom extensions available online Death Society and Human Experience remains a thoughtful exploratory and impressively comprehensive overview for undergraduate and graduate courses in death dying and bereavement Human Experience

John Russon, 2010-03-29 Co winner of the 2005 Biennial Book Prize for the best philosophy book published in English presented by the Canadian Philosophical Association John Russon's Human Experience draws on central concepts of contemporary European philosophy to develop a novel analysis of the human psyche Beginning with a study of the nature of perception embodiment and memory Russon investigates the formation of personality through family and social experience He focuses on the importance of the feedback we receive from others regarding our fundamental worth as persons and on the way this interpersonal process embeds meaning into our most basic bodily practices eating sleeping sex and so on Russon concludes with an original interpretation of neurosis as the habits of bodily practice developed in family interactions that have become the foundation for developed interpersonal life and proposes a theory of psychological therapy as the development of philosophical insight that responds to these neurotic compulsions Biological Measures of Human Experience across the Lifespan Lynnette Leidy Sievert, Daniel E. Brown, 2016-12-21 This volume explores methods used by social scientists and human biologists to understand fundamental aspects of human experience It is organized by stages of the human lifespan beginnings adulthood and aging Explored are particular kinds of experiences including pain stress activity levels sleep quality memory and menopausal hot flashes that have traditionally relied upon self reports but are subject to inter individual differences in self awareness or culture based expectations The volume also examines other ways in which normally invisible phenomena can be made visible such as the caloric content of foods blood pressure fecundity growth nutritional status genotypes and bone health All of the chapters in this book address the means by which social scientists and human biologists measure subjective and objective experience
