BOOK JACKET The Earth as Transformed by Human Action B. L. Turner,William

C. Clark, Robert W. Kates, John F. Richards, Jessica T. Mathews, William B. Meyer, 1993-01-29 The Earth as Transformed by Human Action is the culmination of a mammoth undertaking involving the examination of the toll our continual strides forward technical and social take on our world. The purpose of such a study is to document the changes in the biosphere that have taken place over the last 300 years to contrast global patterns of change to those appearing on a regional level and to explain the major human forces that have driven these changes. The first section deals strictly with the major human forces of the past 300 years and the second is a detailed account of the transformations of the global environment wrought by human action. The final section examines a range of perspectives and theories that purport to explain human actions with regard to the biosphere.

Fundamentals of Physical Geography David John Briggs, Peter Smithson, 1986 This primary text designed for undergraduate courses provides a modern approach to the fundamentals of physical geography by linking process form and effect. The authors explore the natural world as a series of systems and consider the relationship between the different components of each. They examine in turn the atmosphere, hydrosphere, lithosphere, and biosphere, providing a thorough discussion of their composition and the ways in which their interaction forms our global environment. Throughout, the authors demonstrate the role of humanity in influencing the physical environment and the ways in which we are affected by our surroundings. Clearly written and lavishly illustrated with maps, drawings, photographs, and charts, Fundamentals of Physical Geography is an ideal text.

Human Impact on Environment and Sustainable Development in Africa Michael B.K. Darkoh, 2018-12-20 This title was first published in 2003. Based on a blend of knowledge and perspectives from a variety of disciplines, this volume examines the human environment interaction in Africa with a focus on the economic, social, and political processes that generate environmental change and problems in this region. Currently, there are controversies over and challenges to such concepts and issues as environment, human relationships, ecological resilience, decertification, sustainable development, globalization, and North-South dialogue. This book draws upon past and present research findings to discuss these issues. It features an examination of the characteristics, processes, and patterns of environmental crises; an analysis of the principal issues and challenges facing policy makers and implementers; and the promotion of awareness of theoretical, empirical, and comparative research. The volume not only seeks to answer some of the old questions but also opens up new ones for further discussion.

Economic and Social Geography R. Knowles, J. Wareing, 2014-05-15 Economic and Social Geography reviews developments in the study of economic and social geography and brings together in a single volume work which is dispersed in many specialist textbooks. An attempt has been made to achieve a balance between oversimplification and overelaboration and to present essential concepts in a clear, concise manner. The book contains 25 chapters organized into five parts. Part One deals with the study of economic and social geography, including approaches to the study of human geography and environmental perception and behavior. Part Two on population geography covers topics such as population geography, population change, and population growth. Part Three on economic geography includes discussions of transportation agriculture and mineral resources Part Four on settlement geography examines urbanization the internal structure of towns and cities and rural settlement Part Five is devoted to urban and rural planning problems of economic development and resources This book together with its companion volume Physical Geography Made Simple should be of value to a variety of people First to those who are coming to academic geography for the first time especially to those studying for GCE Advanced Level or ONC OND examinations It should also provide a concise introduction to first year courses in further and higher education including degree courses with a geography component HNC HND and Certificate in Education courses

Environments in a Changing World John Huckle, Adrian Martin, 2014-09-19 While there is no shortage of books on the environment there are few introductory texts that outline the social theory that informs human geographical approaches to the interactions between ecology and society Students arriving at university often lack the understanding of history economics politics sociology and philosophy that contemporary human geography requires Environments in a Changing World addresses this deficit providing foundation knowledge in a form that is accessible to first year students and applied to the understanding of both contemporary environmental issues and the challenge of sustainability Students are challenged to develop and defend their own ethical and political positions on sustainability and respond to the need for new forms of ecological citizenship

Cultural Landscapes and Environmental Change Lesley Head, 2017-09-25 Cultural landscapes are usually understood within physical geography as those transformed by human action As human influence on the earth increases advances in palaeocological reconstruction have also allowed for new interpretations of the evidence for the earliest human impacts on the environment It is essential that such evidence is examined in the context of modern trends in social sciences and humanities This stimulating new book argues that convergence of the two approaches can provide a more holistic understanding of long term physical and human processes Split into two major sections this book attempts to bridge the gap between the sciences and humanities The first section provides an analysis of the methodological tools employed in examining processes of environmental change Empirical research in the fields of palaeocology and Quaternary studies is combined with the latest theoretical views of nature and landscape occurring in cultural geography archaeology and anthropology The author examines the way in which environmental management decisions are made The book then moves on to discuss the relevance of this perspective to contemporary issues through a wide variety of international case studies including World Heritage protection landscape preservation indigenous people and cultural tourism
