The Fourth Discontinuity The Co Evolution Of Humans And Machines:

The Fourth Discontinuity Bruce Mazlish,1993 This book draws on history and legend science and science fiction to consider the complex relationship between humans and machines Bruce Mazlish argues that just as Copernicus Darwin and Freud overturned our illusions of separation from and domination over the cosmos the animal world and the unconscious it is now necessary to relinquish a fourth fallacy or discontinuity that humans are separate from the machines we make The Fourth Discontinuity Bruce Mazlish,1993-01-01 Discusses the relationship between humans and machines pondering the implications of humans becoming more mechanical and of computer robots being programmed to think He describes early Greek and Chinese automatons and discusses ideas of previous centuries and of individuals on this subject Mechanical Bodies, Computational Minds Stefano Franchi,Güven Güzeldere,2005 Researchers in artificial intelligence and scholars in the humanities consider the past present and future of artificial intelligence from a multidisciplinary perspective

Handbook on the Ethics of Artificial Intelligence David J. Gunkel,2024-07-05 This engaging Handbook identifies and critically examines the moral opportunities and challenges typically attributed to artificial intelligence It provides a comprehensive overview and examination of the most pressing and urgent problems with this technology by drawing on a wide range of analytical methods traditions and approaches The Body Electric James Geary,2002 Marie a sixty three year old Belgian woman has been totally blind since the age of fifty seven But now thanks to electrodes implanted around her right optic nerve she can see lights shapes and colors again Marie is one of a handful of people around the world who have had computer chips implanted in their bodies to extend enhance or repair their senses The idea of actually melding man and machine still seems futuristic unlikely and a little scary But in The Body Electric James Geary examines the startling possibilities opened up by the merger of the biological and the technological This remarkable convergence holds the promise of restoring sight to the blind and mobility to the paralyzed It might also provide us with bionic senses such as the ability to see infrared radiation or feel objects at a distance By linking neurons in the brain directly to silicon chips scientists are also exploring the possibility of creating virtual eyes ears and limbs on the Internet and allowing people to control appliances by thought alone Machines too are getting silicon senses Researchers are endowing computers with the ability to see hear smell taste touch and conceivably think The Body Electric offers an accessible and astute survey of this exciting area of research with its potential commercial medical and military applications Drawing on fields as diverse as artificial intelligence and biology The Body Electric asks Are you any less you after a bionic implant If all of our senses are electronically enhanced how will we tell the difference between virtual reality and the actual world Will it matter The merger of our technology and ourselves is already beginning to change the way we see hear smell taste touch and think about the world opening the doors of perception just another crack Redeemer Nation Orrin Schwab,2004 In this book Dr Orrin Schwab develops the concept of the modern technocratic state as part of a global technocratic culture and civilization The author argues that technocratic cultural and institutional forms were and are part of a collective script for Western culture The American script combined the scientific commercial and technological aspects of the Enlightenment with the radical 17th century Protestant belief in America as a new Zion In the twentieth century the synthesis of mission along with global technocratic knowledge and institutions created the Wilsonian liberal technocratic order As the principal agent and protector of the modern capitalist international system America the self defined Redeemer Nation has moved through the controlled anarchy of international relations from one war and crisis to the next confirmed in its self defined role and mission Humanity 2.0 S.
