The Future Of Amazonia Destruction Or Sustainable Development:

The Future of Amazonia A. Hall, D. Goodman, 1991-01-12 The future of Brazilian Amazonia the world's largest remaining tropical rainforest hangs in the balance Two decades of destructive development have provoked violent struggles for control over the region's resources with disastrous social and environmental consequences This multi disciplinary collection reviews past experience but focusses on the latest phase of Amazonian settlement Chapters by leading authorities examine such issues as colonisation in the most recent frontier areas multinational mining projects hydro electric schemes and the military occupation of Brazil's borders After demonstrating how new government and business activities have exacerbated social tensions and ecological destruction the volume considers alternative more sustainable strategies

Frontiers of Development in the Amazon Antonio Augusto Rossotto Ioris, Rafael R. Ioris, Sergei V. Shubin, 2020-06-22 Frontiers of Development in the Amazon Riches Risks and Resistances contributes to ongoing debates on the processes of change in the Amazon a region inherently tied to the expansion of internal and external socio economic and environmental frontiers This book offers interdisciplinary analyses from a range of scholars in Europe Latin America and the United States that question the methods of development and the range of socio ecological impacts of those methods by examining the theoretical methodological and empirical dimensions of frontier making along with evaluating and refining existing frameworks Contributors focus on the complex politics of border formation shaped by institutional economic and political forces placing them in relation to ethical imaginary and symbolic elements In doing so contributors explore the dynamic production of identities values and subjectivities covering matters of migratory patterns complex power struggles and intensive at times violent clashes Among other topics this book assesses the recent encroachment of export driven agribusiness into the Amazon Region in the context of recolonization resource exploitation and multiple programs of modernization and national integration Scholars of Latin American studies international development environmental studies and applied social sciences will find this book particularly useful The Brazilian Amazon Rainforest Luiz C. Barbosa, 2000 Barbosa sociology San Francisco State University provides a global world systemic analysis of the problem of deforestation of the Brazilian Amazon rainforest He shows how changes in global ecopolitics demanding sustainable development coupled with the onset of democracy in Brazil substantially altered the battle over the future of Amazonia He describes deforestation in the region in the context of an expanding frontier of global capitalism and compares Amazon experiences with those of Costa Rica Malaysia and Indonesia What Drives Deforestation in the Brazilian Amazon? Alexander S. P. Pfaff, 1997

Emerging Threats to Tropical Forests William F. Laurance, Carlos A. Peres, 2006-10 Publisher Description Risky Rivers Michael Chibnik, 1994-10-01 While anthropologists and ecologists have carefully described the activities of the slash and burn cultivators ranchers and miners of tropical South America they have largely overlooked the economic strategies and political struggles of riverine people who survive by flood recession agriculture and fishing These riverine people who constitute the majority of the inhabitants of the Amazonian floodplains of Peru have developed ecologically sustainable resource management practices that enable them to cope with periodic inundations of their fields by risky rivers. They have however suffered greatly from unpredictable crop prices and erratic state agricultural policies. Michael Chibnik here examines the household economies, cultural ecology, grassroots political organizations of ribereños living in three floodplain villages near Iquitos, Peru. He describes the villagers' remarkable history, their participation in misconceived development programs and their longstanding conflicts with regional elites. Chibnik discusses the political ecology of the region in the context of arguments about appropriate development policies in tropical lowlands. Although ribereños practice intensive agriculture with low environmental impact, they have not been able to improve their economic circumstances in recent years. Chibnik's study is a significant and timely contribution to current debates about the possibility of sustainable equitable development in Amazonia.

Amazonia Without Myths Commission on Development and Environment for Amazonia, 2001-12. This report prepared by the Commission on Development and Environment for Amazonia at the initiative of the Amazon Cooperation Treaty and supported by the Inter American Development Bank and the United Nations Development Programme is based on the concept of an Amazonia that exists above and beyond the world of fantasy and myth, an Amazonia of flesh and blood, of human toil, of human history, of human faces and hopes and future human beings. It is an analysis based not only on the experiences and technologies of today's world but also and with greater emphasis on the wisdom accumulated for centuries by Amazonia itself. Standing Amazonia: The Amazon region has the largest area of tropical forest on the planet and concern for its environmental deterioration extends well beyond the borders of the eight countries that form a part of it. With support from the IDB and UNDP, the Commission on Development and Environment for Amazonia prepared this report that provides data on the region's natural resources, population, health and infrastructure.

Civil Becomings Raúl Acosta, 2020-08-04. An anthropological approach to an emerging form of transnational political engagement by independent civil society organizations. Activism and advocacy have drawn academic interest as alternative ways of achieving collective ends outside established political institutions. However, there has been very little theoretical attention aimed at the interconnections between the two spheres. In Civil Becomings: Performative Politics in the Amazon and the Mediterranean, Raúl Acosta examines the manner in which progressive nongovernmental organizations (NGOs) and activists act in a more intermingled and processual way than scholars have previously acknowledged. Acosta focuses on networks from the vantage point of two NGOs: one in Brazil that concentrated on environmental issues in the Amazon and another in Barcelona called the Mediterranean Social Forum. The focus of this research is not on organizational aspects of collaboration but rather on the practices and contexts in which such cooperation occurs. Three major aspects of activist and advocacy networks are analyzed: their communicative characters, their collective performances of the political, and the negotiations they engage in between vernacular and cosmopolitan values. This volume theorizes the cooperative actions of activist and advocacy networks as legitimizing processes for the work of participating groups In doing so Acosta argues they address the issues that justify a joint campaign or effort and also crucially underpin each participating collective as a worthy organization of civil society

Mobility and Migration in Indigenous Amazonia Miguel N. Alexiades, 2009 Contrary to ingrained academic and public assumptions wherein indigenous lowland South American societies are viewed as the product of historical emplacement and spatial stasis there is widespread evidence to suggest that migration and displacement have been the norm and not the exception This original and thought provoking collection of case studies examines some of the ways in which migration and the concomitant processes of ecological and social change have shaped and continue to shape human environment relations in Amazonia Drawing on a wide range of historical time frames from pre conquest times to the present and ethnographic contexts different chapters examine the complex and important links between migration and the classification management and domestication of plants and landscapes as well as the incorporation and transformation of environmental knowledge practices ideologies and identities
