Plantation Slavery, Jamaica and Absentee Ownership RICHARD C. MAGUIRE, 2024-09-24 An economic history of the Burton family of Norfolk and their enslaved workers on the Chiswick sugar estate While the Atlantic plantation economy covered vast areas of the globe and saw the largest forced movement of people in human history any global history is the sum of myriad local stories This book recounts one of them It is the story of a Norfolk family the Burtons who owned the Chiswick sugar estate on the island of Jamaica The family inherited the estate in 1788 and for fifty eight years ran it from Norfolk and Suffolk as absentee landlords Drawing on new archival research in Britain the United States and Jamaica this book makes an important intervention to our understanding of key debates in the economic history of plantation slavery the decline of the planter class the importance of British abolitionism the way in which plantations were operated the mechanics of absentee ownership and importantly the lives of the enslaved people whose exploitation sustained the entire system Although the story of Chiswick s enslaved workers before the late 1820s is difficult to reconstruct its traces can be gleaned from the accounting records and letters of the estate s owners Their story illuminates the economic data and managerial letters and reveals that Chiswick s workers were crucial in shaping the history of the estate From the 1830s the workers activity became central as they responded to emancipation by gradually asserting their rights In the end it was the action of the formerly enslaved workers that made the Burtons continuing ownership of the Chiswick estate economically unviable While the wider context of abolition made this possible it was the response of these workers including strike actions which decided the fate of the absentee owned Chiswick sugar estate RICHARD C MAGUIRE is an Honorary Senior Lecturer in the School of History UEA He is the author of Africans in East Anglia 1467 1833 Boydell Press 2021
