Ross, Øystein Tunsjø, 2017-06-20 Strategic Adjustment and the Rise of China demonstrates how structural and domestic variables influence how East Asian states adjust their strategy in light of the rise of China including how China manages its own emerging role as a regional great power The contributors note that the shifting regional balance of power has fueled escalating tensions in East Asia and suggest that adjustment challenges are exacerbated by the politics of policymaking International and domestic pressures on policymaking are reflected in maritime territorial disputes and in the broader range of regional security issues created by the rise of China Adjusting to power shifts and managing a new regional order in the face of inevitable domestic pressure including nationalism is a challenging process Both the United States and China have had to adjust to China's expanded capabilities China has sought an expanded influence in maritime East Asia the United States has responded by consolidating its alliances and expanding its naval presence in East Asia The region's smaller countries have also adjusted to the rise of China They have sought greater cooperation with China even as they try to sustain cooperation with the United States As China continues to rise and challenge the regional security order the contributors consider whether the region is destined to experience increased conflict and confrontation Contributors Ian Bowers Norwegian Defence University College and Norwegian Institute for Defence Studies Daniel W Drezner Tufts University Brookings Institution and Washington Post Taylor M Fravel Massachusetts Institute of Technology Bjørn Elias Mikalsen Grønning Norwegian Defence University College and Norwegian Institute for Defence Studies Chung in Moon Yonsei University and Chairman Presidential Committee on Northeast Asia Cooperation Initiative Republic of Korea James Reilly University of Sydney Robert S Ross Boston College and Harvard University Randall L Schweller The Ohio State University ystein Tunsj Norwegian Defence University College and the Norwegian Institute for Defence Studies Wang Dong Peking University Cambodia's China Strategy Chanborey Cheunboran, 2021-06-21 This book explores the tensions within Cambodia's foreign policy between a tight alignment with China on the one hand and Cambodia's commitment to the Association of the Southeast Asian Nations ASEAN as well as its delicate foreign policy diversification towards other major powers on the other hand It traces the long history of Cambodia's quest for survival from its bigger and historically antagonistic neighbours the Thai and the Vietnamese and its struggle for security and independence from the two neighbours and external major powers particularly the United States and China It discusses Cambodia's geopolitical predicaments deriving from its location of being sandwiched between powerful neighbours and limited strategic options available for the Kingdom The book also assesses recent developments in Cambodia's relations with its neighbours and their implications for Cambodia's increasingly tight alignment with China in recent years It considers the extent to which the ruling regime in Cambodia depends on strong relations with China for its legitimacy and survival and argues that there are risks and danger for Cambodia in moving towards an increasingly tight alignment with China

Images and Strategies for Autonomy Ole Elgström, 2013-11-11 How do small states approach their security problems What types of strategic instruments exist for small states and when and why are certain strategies chosen rather than others The security of weak states is problematic demanding trade offs in the decisions made Using 19th century Swedish security policy as an example it is argued here that small states in their pursuit of security and autonomy face a dilemma between abandonment and entrapment leading to a choice between balancing between great powers or making an approach to one of them This hard choice confronts both non aligned and allied states It is also argued that a focus on the images of decision makers is required as a complement to traditional realist theory in order to gain an in depth understanding of small state security decisions This book is special in its focus on small non aligned states Most studies on balance of power behaviour limit their analysis to alignment decisions The study also expands the domain of image constructs by introducing perceived regime characteristics into the analysis besides images of power and intentions Audience Scholars and students interested in foreign policy analysis particularly small state behaviour The book points to the importance of beliefs and ideas in security policy

Write Great Code, Volume 2, 2nd Edition Randall Hyde, 2020-08-04 Explains how compilers translate high level language source code like code written in Python into low level machine code code that the computer can understand to help readers understand how to produce the best low level computer readable machine code In the beginning most software was written in assembly the CPU s low level language in order to achieve acceptable performance on relatively slow hardware Early programmers were sparing in their use of high level language code knowing that a high level language compiler would generate crummy low level machine code for their software Today however many programmers write in high level languages like Python C C C Java Swift The result is often sloppy inefficient code But you don t need to give up the productivity and portability of high level languages in order to produce more efficient software In this second volume of the Write Great Code series you ll learn How to analyze the output of a compiler to verify that your code does indeed generate good machine code The types of machine code statements that compilers typically generate for common control structures so you can choose the best statements when writing HLL code

Asian Geopolitics and the US-China Rivalry Felix Heiduk, 2021-07-22 This book analyses the ways in which foreign policy actors in Asia have responded to the emerging great power conflict between the US and the People's Republic of China focusing on medium and small states across the Indo Pacific The book offers a much needed counterpoint to existing analyses on the Indo Pacific and China's BRI and presents a new perspective by examining how great power politics are locally reinterpreted conditioned or at times even contested It illustrates the policy level challenges which the US China rivalry poses for established political and economic practices and outlines how these challenges can be best addressed by smaller states and their societies A timely assessment of the power play in the Indo Pacific with the angle of Sino American rivalry this book makes an important contribution to the study of Political Science International Relations Asian Studies and Security Studies Chapter 10 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license

Crucible of Beliefs Dan Reiter, 2019-05-15 How do foreign policymakers learn from history When do states enter alliances Why have some small powers chosen to enter alliances whereas others have stayed neutral In Crucible of Beliefs Dan Reiter uses work in social psychology and organization theory to build a formative events model of learning in international politics History does inform the decisions of policymakers he suggests but it is history of a specific sort based on firsthand experience in major events such as wars Tested against balance of threat theory the leading realist explanation of alliance behavior Reiter's formative events model of learning emerges as a far better predictor of states decisions Crucible of Beliefs shows that contrary to balance of threat theory state leaders ignore the level of international threat and focus instead on avoiding past mistakes and repeating past successes A serious blow to realism these findings demonstrate that to understand the dynamics of world politics it is essential to know how leaders learn from history

War, Peace and Hegemony in A Globalized World Chandra Chari, 2010 This book focuses on how the US could adapt its foreign policy initiatives to fit in with the growing aspirations of a multipolar world for a more balanced international order Written by leading scholars such as Joseph Nye Eric Hobsbawm and Akira Iriye the volume examines if the absence of a superpower status would lead to anarchy or if an alternative is possible In view of the globalization process and the changing perceptions of US hegemony in the various regions of the world it addresses the possibility of re-examining and redefining the nineteenth century classical balance of power Divided into two sections it analyzes global perspectives on war, peace and hegemony and the role of the United States each region of the world in the context of the unfolding processes of globalization the various ways in which economic and socio-political organizations are impacting inter and intra regionally and the role of the United
