how the understanding of this important political concept has either broadened or contracted depending on changing political circumstances Mastropaolo then poses the question of what it means for democracy to be the government of the people He deals with the way in which democratic government has been affected by changes in the fabric of society by the evolution of democratic theory itself and by the transformations affecting the state and political parties Political class and citizens attitudes towards democratic politics increasingly characterised by resentment and often taking the form of an anti politics are analysed in the concluding chapters

The World We Want Robert B. Loudon, 2010-03-16 The World We Want compares the future world that Enlightenment intellectuals had hoped for with our own world at present In what respects do the two worlds differ and why are they so different To what extent is and isn't our world the world they wanted and to what extent do we today still want their world Unlike previous philosophical critiques and defenses of the Enlightenment the present study focuses extensively on the relevant historical and empirical record first by examining carefully what kind of future Enlightenment intellectuals actually hoped for second by tracking the different legacies of their central ideals over the past two centuries But in addition to documenting the significant gap that still exists between Enlightenment ideals and current realities the author also attempts to show why the ideals of the Enlightenment still elude us What does our own experience tell us about the appropriateness of these ideals Which Enlightenment ideals do not fit with human nature Why is meaningful support for these ideals particularly within the US so weak at present Which of the means that Enlightenment intellectuals advocated for realizing their ideals are inefficacious Which of their ideals have devolved into distorted versions of themselves when attempts have been made to realize them How and why after more than two centuries have we still failed to realize the most significant Enlightenment ideals In short what is dead and what is living in these ideals

The Friendly Liquidation of the Past Donna Lee Van Cott, 2012-02-15 Constitutional reform has been one of the most significant aspects of democratization in late twentieth century Latin America In The Friendly Liquidation of the Past one of the first texts to examine this issue comprehensively Van Cott focuses on the efforts of Bolivia and Colombia to incorporate ethnic rights into their fragile democracies In the 1990s political leaders and social movements in Bolivia and Colombia expressed dissatisfaction with the quality of democracy its exclusionary nature the distance and illegitimacy of the state and the empty promise of citizenship The highly symbolic act of constitution making elevated a public struggle for rights to the level of a discussion on the meaning of democracy and the nature of the state Based on interviews with more than 100 participants in the reforms Van Cott demonstrates how issues promoted by social movements recognizing ethnic diversity expanding political participation and improving representation and creating spheres of cultural and territorial autonomy were placed on the constitutional reform agenda and transformed through strategic interaction with political power brokers into the nation's highest law The analysis follows each reform through five years of implementation to assess the early results of what Van Cott suggests is an emerging regional model of multicultural constitutionalism The Friendly Liquidation of the Past fills an important gap in the study of ethnic politics and constitutional reform in the Andes linking the literature on institutions and political reform to work in political theory on participatory democracy and multiculturalism
