Contagious Diseases of domesticated Animals D. E. Salmon, 1884 Contagious Diseases of Domesticated Animals United States. Department of Agriculture, 1883 Castration Gary Taylor, 2002-09-11 Castration is a lively history of the meaning function and act of castration from its place in the early church to its secular reinvention in the Renaissance as a spiritualized form of masculinity in its 20th century position at the core of psychoanalysis The Ecology of Reproduction in Wild and Domestic Mammals R.M. Sadler, 2012-12-06 49 about six months to well over a year If there is only one part of the year that is favourable such as spring and early summer in the temperate climates then each species must make an evolutionary choice so to speak as to which parts of the reproductive cycle conception gestation lactation or weaning must be protected and which can come in less favourable times of the year The rhesus and langur monkeys of northern India give birth during the time of year when temperatures are hottest and wells and tanks are often dry However gestation and the later months of lactation come during the monsoon season when food and water are abundant. In contrast, the east African baboons give birth at the beginning of the small rains and gestation and the late part of lactation occur during the six months dry season. Whether any pattern of relationship will be found to hold true for other species of primates is still not clear. It may be that a wide variety of patterns have evolved depending on the lengths of gestation and lactation and the particular ecological complex in which each species or even subspecies lives. pages 503-504

The Handbook of New Zealand Mammals Carolyn King, David Forsyth, 2021-01-20. The Handbook of New Zealand Mammals is the only definitive reference on all the land breeding mammals recorded in the New Zealand region including the New Zealand sector of Antarctica. It lists 65 species including native and exotic wild and feral living and extinct residents, vagrants and failed introductions. It describes their history, biology and ecology and brings together comprehensive and detailed information gathered from widely scattered or previously unpublished sources. The description of each species is arranged under standardised headings for easy reference. Because the only native land breeding mammals in New Zealand are bats and seals, the great majority of the modern mammal fauna comprises introduced species whose arrival has had profound effects both for themselves and for the native fauna and flora. The book details changes in numbers and distribution for the native species and for the arrivals; it summarises changes in habitat, diet, numbers and size in comparison with their ancestral stocks and some of the problems they present to resource managers. For this third edition, the text and references have been completely updated and reorganised into Family chapters. The colour section includes 14 pages of artwork showing all the species described and their main variations plus two pages of maps.
