The Myth Of Government Information:

The Myth of Government Information Alastair J. Allan, 1990 A Comprehensive Assessment of Public Information Dissemination United States. National Commission on Libraries and Information Science, 2000 It was a simple announcement on a summer day It appeared to be a straightforward proposal to solve a serious problem Constrained by a statutory requirement for self funding and facing a new paradigm in information dissemination the National Technical Information Service NTIS was failing As federal agencies distributed reports at no cost on the World Wide Web reports that formerly NTIS had distributed NTIS was unable to collect revenue sufficient to cover its costs of cataloging and maintaining its collection The proposal put forth in August 1999 by the Department of Commerce where NTIS is organizationally located was to close NTIS and move its collections and functions to the Library of Congress The National Commission on Libraries and Information Science NCLIS immediately recognized this proposal to be far more significant than it first appeared Fundamental issues regarding how the government used disseminated and valued its information resources were at stake The Commission stepped forward and prepared a preliminary assessment of the proposed closure of NTIS which it delivered to the President and Congress This report recommended a number of steps to keep NTIS operational but it also stated that a much broader assessment of the underlying issues involved in public information dissemination throughout government was needed , Administrative Notes , 2004 ICTs, Citizens and Governance Albert Meijer, Kees Boersma, Pieter Wagenaar, 2009 ICTs Citizens and Governance After the Hype aims to help researchers and practitioners to understand hypes about ICT and government without becoming cynical Hypes can be functional in triggering processes of change but one should be able to distinguish a trigger from a realistic set of expectations This book combines an analysis of the discourse in terms of hypes with an analysis of practices in terms of stable routines and relational patterns The relation between the discourse and resulting changing is complex situational and interpretable in multiple ways but certainly merits our attention

Citizens and E-Government: Evaluating Policy and Management Reddick, Christopher G., 2010-04-30 This book examines the role that citizens play in the development of electronic government or e government specifically focusing on the impact of e government and citizens exploring issues of policy and management in government Provided by publisher Making Policy for the New Information Economy Krishna Prasad Jayakar, Chun Liu, 2023-09-10 This volume is a theoretically informed comparative analysis of the telecommunications and information policy making process in two major developing economies China and India With a focus on how policies are made rather than what those policies are the book investigates how policy actors interact within institutional structures to define policy problems and identify potential solutions The authors explain the evolution of these policy making systems as the two countries liberalized their economies and opened their media and telecommunications systems to competition over the past two and a half decades With applications in numerous international contexts this book will be of interest to scholars and practitioners in public policy studies telecommunications business
