Social Theory for a Changing Society Pierre Bourdieu, James S Coleman, Zdzislaw Walaszek Coleman, 2021-06-02 There is in modern society a structural change that underlies many of the social changes with which the conference was concerned My argument here will be that this is a qualitative change in the way society is organized a change with many implications I will call this a change from primordial and spontaneous social organization to constructed social organization see Coleman 1990 Chapters 2 3 and 24 for an extended examination of this change The common definitions of these terms contain some hint of what I mean but I will describe the change more fully to ensure that it is clearly understood By primordial social organization I mean social organization that has its origins in the relationships established by childbirth Not all these relations are activated in all cultures but some subset of these relations forms the basis for all primitive and traditional social organization From these relations more complex structures unfold For example from these relations come families from families come clans from clans villages and from villages tribes ethnicities or societies
