Thompson,2004-03      Our Social World Jeanne H. Ballantine,Keith A. Roberts,2011-10-26 In this brief text two leaders of the Teaching Sociology movement encourage students development of their sociological imaginations through role taking Assuming the role of a child living in poverty in India or of a member of an African tribe students learn to re envision their global society An innovative integrated framework provides core sociological concepts while features such as Contributing to Our Social World enable students to do public sociology Our Social World Condensed Version presents the perspective of students living in the larger global world      Global Perspectives on Teacher Motivation Helen M. G. Watt,Paul W. Richardson,Kari Smith,2017-09-08 Many studies of teacher motivation have been conducted in different contexts over time However until fairly recently there has not been a reliable measure available to allow comparisons across samples and settings This has resulted in an abundance of findings which cannot be directly compared or synthesised The FIT Choice instrument offers the opportunity to examine motivations across settings The various studies in this book suggest that people who choose teaching as a career are motivated by a complex interaction of factors embedded within communities and cultural expectations but seem generally to embrace a desire to undertake meaningful work that makes for a better society Unlike some careers where rewards are in the form of salary and status by and large these factors are not strong drivers for people who want to become teachers They want to work with children and adolescents and believe they have the ability to teach      Annotated Instructor's Edition Richard T.
