

MANTA TRUST CLIMATE MANDATE

Humanity is facing the defining crisis of our time, a climate emergency of our own making. Each year, billions of tons of CO₂ are released into the atmosphere from human activity, producing greenhouse gas emissions at a record high. No place on earth is safe from the devastating effects of the climate crisis, including the world's oceans, which play a fundamental role in absorbing and redistributing heat and carbon dioxide. Consequently, the polar ice caps are melting, rainforests are burning, coral reefs are dying, and the oceans are acidifying. We must ACT NOW or the impact on humans and all life on earth will be catastrophic.

IMPACTS ON MANTA AND DEVIL RAYS

Ocean productivity models predict huge declines in zooplankton biomass in tropical waters, which would spell disaster for manta and devil ray populations.

Rising sea surface temperatures are causing mass coral bleaching and mortality events. As the building blocks of the entire reef ecosystem, the death of coral reefs is destroying the habitat which reef manta rays depend on for their survival.

Despite being a small non-profit marine conservation organisation, we are very aware that we too have a carbon footprint and that it is our responsibility to reduce this as much as possible.

As a team, the Manta Trust have reviewed our aims and operations, and are committed to:

Taking meaningful steps to identify and reduce our core team's carbon footprint (travel, digital footprint, merchandise, banking, and field research).

Offsetting the emissions that we cannot avoid.

Sharing best practice and learnings with our global network of affiliate projects, sponsors, corporate partners, staff, and followers to inspire further change.

Adding our voice and support to climate campaigns and policy actions.

Using our online platforms and public events to talk regularly about the climate crisis and its impact on the oceans and marine species, encouraging urgent action and debate whenever possible.

Expanding our educational outreach to engage a greater number and diversity of people globally with climate issues and their impact on the marine environment, empowering them to act for the oceans.

For more information on specific actions the Manta Trust are taking to achieve the above commitments, please visit our website:
