The Cochise Cultural Sequence In Southeastern Arizona:

The Cochise Cultural Sequence in Southeastern Arizona Edwin Booth Sayles, 1983 The Anthropological Papers of the University of Arizona is a peer reviewed monograph series sponsored by the School of Anthropology Established in 1959 the series publishes archaeological and ethnographic papers that use contemporary method and theory to investigate problems of anthropological importance in the southwestern United States Mexico and related areas Federal Correctional Facility, Southern Arizona, 2001 The Ceramic Sequence of the Holmul Region, Guatemala Michael G. Callaghan, Nina Neivens de Estrada, 2016-11-29 New and comprehensive sequencing of the ceramics in Guatemala's Holmul region provides answers to important questions in Maya archaeology In this comprehensive and highly illustrated new study authors Callaghan and Neivens de Estrada use type variety mode classification to define a ceramic sequence that spans approximately 1 600 years Human Adaptations and Cultural Change in the Greater Southwest Alan H. Simmons, 1989 The Way the Wind Blows Roderick J. McIntosh, Joseph A. Tainter, Susan Keech McIntosh, 2012-07-24 Robert W Harms Yale University Prehistoric Culture Change on the Colorado Plateau Shirley Powell, Francis E. Smiley, 2016-02 A collection of writings by participants in the Black Mesa Archaeological Project offers a synthesis of Kayenta area archaeology examining the ancestral Puebloan and Navajo occupation of the Four Corners region and analysing faunal lithic ceramic chronometric and human osteological data to construct an account of the prehistory and ethnohistory of northern Arizona that demonstrates how organizational variation and other aspects of culture change are largely a response to a changing natural environment Graphing Culture Change in North American Archaeology R. Lee Lyman, 2021-06-10 Documentation analysis and explanation of culture change have long been goals of archaeology Scientific graphs facilitate the visual thinking that allow archaeologists to determine the relationship between variables and if well designed comprehend the processes implied by the relationship Different graph types suggest different ontologies and theories of change and particular techniques of parsing temporally continuous morphological variation of artefacts into types influence graph form North American archaeologists have grappled with finding a graph that effectively and efficiently displays culture change over time Line graphs bar graphs and numerous one off graph types were used between 1910 and 1950 after which spindle graphs displaying temporal frequency distributions of specimens within each of multiple artefact types emerged as the most readily deciphered diagram The variety of graph types used over the twentieth century indicate archaeologists often mixed elements of both Darwinian variational evolutionary change and Midas touch like transformational change Today there is minimal discussion of graph theory or graph grammar in introductory archaeology textbooks or advanced texts and elements of the two theories of evolution are still mixed Culture has changed and archaeology provides unique access to the totality of humankind's cultural past It is therefore crucial that graph theory construction and decipherment are revived in archaeological discussion Agricultural Beginnings in the American

Southwest Barbara J. Roth, 2016-10-12 How did agriculture come about in the American Southwest What environmental and social factors led to the cultivation of plants How in turn did the use of these new agricultural products affect the ancient peoples living in the region In pursuit of answers to these questions Barbara Roth synthesizes data from both CRM and academic research to explore the emergence and impact of Southwestern agriculture Roth examines agricultural beginnings across the entire Southwest both northern and southern and across culture groups residing there Beyond simply addressing the arrival and widespread adoption of specific cultigens she pays particular attention to human factors such as patterns of production and variability in agricultural developments Her consideration of broad social and environmental dynamics affecting forager diets and adaptive strategies sheds new light on what we know and what we should ask about the transition from foraging to farming

Households on the Mimbres Horizon Barbara J. Roth, 2023-03-28 This book explores variability in Mimbres Mogollon pithouse sites using a case study from La Gila Encantada to further our understanding of the full range of pithouse occupations in the area Because the site is away from the major river valleys the data from excavations at the site provides valuable information on the differences in cultural practices that occurred away from the riverine villages as well as environmental differences economic practices and social constructs

Archaeology as Anthropology; a Case Study

William A. Longacre, 1970-06 This paper is important in the rapidly increasing preoccupation of American archeologists with the basic theories of their discipline An excellent example of how basic descriptive data can be used American Anthropologist
