

Emerging Christian Women at Uni: Intersection of Gender and Faith Identities on Campus

Jenny Morgans

Abstract

Gender and faith identities intersect in complex and fluid ways for 'emerging' Christian women in the intense time of transition at university. Based on qualitative research with 21 women students over a period of eighteen months, this research identifies the gendered and religious impact on emerging adulthood in two contexts: academic learning and 'lad culture', conversing with the work of Adrienne Rich in both contexts. This article introduces emerging adulthood and proposes that the ubiquitous post-feminist narrative among emerging women's lives is a debilitating concern. Academic work is shown to be an area of exploration in which Christian students integrate their faith into their daily lives. However, it is often a space in which their gender is unwelcome and disregarded, negatively impacting their learning. On campus, lad culture is experienced by the women as a common injustice. However, engagement in Christian student activity often gives opportunity to either opt-out or to deny the prevalence of lad culture, including within Christian subcultures themselves. Finally, conclusions are offered in order to enable engagement and integration between student women's faith, gender, and lived experiences at university.

However Christian feminists committed to improving the position of Christian women and to the spiritual renewal of their respective churches are drawing inspiration for their struggles from the contemporary Women's Movement. In this study Sara Maitland looks at what has been happening to Christian women in general and Christian feminists in particular over the last fifteen to twenty years. She sets their experiences in the framework of the history of the churches and reviews it in the light of events such as the Second Vatican Council, the ordination of Baptist and Episcopal women ministers in America and Britain and the debate about the ordination of women in the Anglican communion. She argues that the insights gained by Christian feminists put them in a unique position to prophesy to their respective churches leading them back to the Gospel imperatives of love, justice and freedom and that an understanding and acceptance of this role of women is crucial to the well-being of the whole Church. As well as studying the history, theology and institutional structures of the denominational churches, the book uses a wealth of interview material from both sides of the Atlantic to describe the experiences of women from many different backgrounds including nuns, women priests and lay workers. Sara Maitland concludes that Christianity can and must pass beyond the long centuries of oppression and division into a new country, a country in which women and men are equally made in the image of God. Women in the New Testament World Susan Hylen, 2019. Modern readers of the New Testament often notice its varying ideas about women. Some passages encouraged women to be submissive and remain silent. Yet in others women characters owned property, headed households or spoke with approval. Women in the New Testament World helps readers understand this conflicting evidence. It argues that social norms of the time encouraged traditional feminine virtues. However, as Susan Hylen argues, women in the culture enacted these virtues in a variety of ways, including active leadership in households, associations and cities. In contrast to earlier approaches that divided the evidence into groups that either allowed or forbade women's leadership, this book points to a tension that was pervasive across different groups and regions of the Roman world. Society widely viewed women as inferior to men yet applauded their active pursuit of familial and civic interests. Thus it was not the case that some women led while others were silent; instead, women were praised for modesty at the same time as they exerted influence in their communities. Elaborating on this rich historical background, Hylen illuminates new possibilities in New Testament texts.

This is Our Message Emily Suzanne Johnson, 2019. Marabel Morgan defines the total woman. Anita Bryant leads a moral crusade. Beverly LaHaye defies feminism. Tammy Faye Bakker becomes a gay icon. Sarah Palin and Michele Bachmann vie for the White House.

Research in the Social Scientific Study of Religion, Volume 32, 2022-05-16. The present volume brings together scholars from all over the world in an open section and three special sections that explore how lesser heard and unheard voices may be studied. Special section 1: Religion in Higher Education interrogates lived experiences of religion in higher education contexts and how certain voices are marginalised and minoritised. Special section 2: Cultural Blindness in Psychology explores how culture as a lived experience, especially in its religious dimension, is rendered invisible in psychological science. Finally, special section 3

The New Faces of Christianity Philip Jenkins,2006-09-01 Named one of the top religion books of 2002 by USA Today Philip Jenkins s phenomenally successful The Next Christendom permanently changed the way people think about the future of Christianity In that volume Jenkins called the world s attention to the little noticed fact that Christianity s center of gravity was moving inexorably southward to the point that Africa may soon be home to the world s largest Christian populations Now in this brilliant sequel Jenkins takes a much closer look at Christianity in the global South revealing what it is like and what it means for the future The faith of the South Jenkins finds is first and foremost a biblical faith Indeed in the global South many Christians identify powerfully with the world portrayed in the New Testament an agricultural world very much like their own marked by famine and plague poverty and exile until very recently a society of peasants farmers and small craftsmen In the global South as in the biblical world belief in spirits and witchcraft are commonplace and in many places such as Nigeria Indonesia and Sudan Christians are persecuted just as early Christians were Thus the Bible speaks to the global South with a vividness and authenticity simply unavailable to most believers in the industrialized North More important Jenkins shows that throughout the global South believers are reading the Bible with fresh eyes and coming away with new and sometimes startling interpretations Some of their conclusions are distinctly fundamentalist but Jenkins finds an intriguing paradox for they are also finding ideas in the Bible that are socially liberating especially with respect to women s rights Across Africa Asia and Latin America such Christians are social activists in the forefront of a wide range of liberation movements It s hard to overstate how interesting how eye opening how frequently surprising and sometimes disturbing Jenkins findings are Anyone interested in the implications of these trends for the major denominations for Muslim Christian conflict and for global politics will find The New Faces of Christianity provocative and incisive and indispensable

Paul, Women, and Wives Craig S.
