Excerpt from Sketches and Essays: I cannot understand the rage manifested by the greater part of the world for reading New Books. If the public had read all those that have gone before, I can conceive how they should not wish to read the same work twice over; but when I consider the countless volumes that lie unopened, unregarded, unread, and unthought of, I cannot enter into the pathetic complaints that I hear made that Sir Walter writes no more, that the press is idle, that Lord Byron is dead. If I have not read a book before, it is to all intents and purposes new to me, whether it was printed yesterday or three hundred years ago. If it be urged that it has no modern passing incidents and is out of date and old-fashioned, then it is so much the newer, it is farther removed from other works that I have lately read, from the familiar routine of ordinary life, and makes so much more addition to my knowledge. But many people would as soon think of putting on old armour as of taking up a book not published within the last month or year at the utmost. There is a fashion in reading as well as in dress, which lasts only for the season. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
