International Perspectives on Workforce Education and Development Jay W. Rojewski, 2004-12-01 Development of this text has been based on the notion that workforce education and development WFED systems such as secondary and postsecondary vocational and technical education VTE career education and guidance human resource and organizational development HROD and adult training and retraining including literacy programs have essential roles to play in supporting both individual and national efforts to successfully participate in and reap the benefits offered by globalization While this assumption has intuitive appeal not everyone believes that vocational preparation programs result in positive outcomes Psacharopoulos 1997 an outspoken international critic of vocational education and training argues that WFED programs often have a low rate of return on a country's investment when compared to that of the general academic curriculum He contends that WFED initiatives often fail because too much emphasis is placed on these efforts to address myriad complex issues and that decision makers do not utilize the available evidence about VTE to make prudent informed choices Instead major players in the global economy like the World Bank tout basic academic education as an essential priority for developing countries wanting to enter into global markets and exchange

Community Resources William Crimando, T. F. Riggart, 2005-01-26 Counselors often refer their clients to particular human services agencies to deal with specific problems outside their organizations area of expertise How do they find out which outside agencies can help their clients What limitations exist What new helping organizations have been developed and programmed and what existing programs have been enhanced What has new legislation funded This comprehensive and authoritative volume provides the answers human service professionals need to assist and guide their clients Written by credentialed practitioners the book provides detailed explanations and descriptions of the most prominent and beneficial human service agencies Also included is information on agency personnel as well as specific organizational certifications licensing and accreditation This indispensable guide is suitable for use in courses covering the types of human services that exist in every community and as a follow up or adjunct to case management courses It is also an invaluable aid to professional counselors for investigating agencies and or services for client referral

Getting Started in Tech Prep Daniel M. Hull, 1992 Key skill assessment: Communication The Open University, This 50 hour free course gave guidance on the self assessment of personal communication skills and how they can be developed to build self confidence

Cases on Enhancing P-16 Student Engagement With Digital Technologies Gierhart, Aaron R., 2024-12-27 Reimagining how digital technologies are integrated into education is crucial for fostering active and meaningful student engagement Traditional knowledge centric approaches often overlook the dynamic processes students use to interact with and apply technology in their learning By focusing on how students actively engage with digital tools to meet academic and developmental goals educators can create richer more effective learning experiences This shift not only enhances academic outcomes but also prepares students with the critical skills needed to navigate and contribute to an increasingly digital world Cases on Enhancing P 16 Student Engagement With Digital Technologies features cases of teaching and learning with digital technologies in P 16 educational settings focusing specifically on what learners do with technology It shares cases of teaching in which technologies are leveraged in student centered ways that transform learning and allow students to engage in authentic meaningful learning experiences Covering topics such as artificial intelligence AI immersive learning experiences and traditional learning this book is an excellent resource for P 16 educators leaders stakeholders policymakers and more

Skill and Occupational Change Roger Penn, Michael Rose, Jill Rubery, 1994 In this major new book leading sociologists economists and social psychologists present their highly original research into changes in jobs in Britain in the 1980s Combining large scale sample surveys personal life histories and case studies of towns employers and worker groups their findings give clear and often surprising answers to questions debated by social and economic observers in all advanced countries Does technology destroy skills or rebuild them How does skill affect the attitudes of employees and their managers towards their jobs Are women gaining greater skill equality with men or are they still stuck on the lower rungs of the skill and occupational ladders The book also takes up neglected issues what do employees really mean by a skilled job How does skill change link with changes in social values and challenges and discredits the widely held view that new technology has de skilled the work force Skill and Occupational Change exploits the richest single data set available in contemporary Europe and the authors exemplify many new techniques for researching skills at work as an economic resource as a motor of occupational change and as a basis for personal careers and identity It provides the most comprehensive authoritative and carefully researched set of conclusions to date on skill trends and their implications and draws the authoritative new map of skill change in British society
