Negotiating Academic Literacies Vivian Zamel, Ruth Spack, 2012-08-06 Negotiating Academic Literacies Teaching and Learning Across Languages and Cultures is a cross over volume in the literature between first and second language literacy

This anthology of articles brings together different voices from a range of publications and fields and unites them in pursuit of an understanding of how academic ways of knowing are acquired. The editors preface the collection of readings with a conceptual framework that reconsiders the current debate about the nature of academic literacies. In this volume the term academic literacies denotes multiple approaches to knowledge including reading and writing critically. College classrooms have become sites where a number of languages and cultures intersect. This is the case not only for students who are in the process of acquiring English but for all learners who find themselves in an academic situation that exposes them to a new set of expectations. This book is a contribution to the effort to discover ways of supporting learning across languages and cultures and to transform views about what it means to teach and learn to read and write and to think and know. Unique to this volume is the inclusion of the perspectives of writers as well as those of teachers and researchers. Furthermore the contributors reveal their own struggles and accomplishments as they themselves have attempted to negotiate academic literacies. The chronological ordering of articles provides a historical perspective demonstrating ways in which issues related to teaching and learning across cultures have been addressed over time. The readings have consistency in terms of quality, depth and passion; they raise important philosophical questions even as they consider practical classroom applications. The editors provide a series of questions that enable the reader to engage in a generative and exciting process of reflection and inquiry. This book is both a reference for teachers who work or plan to work with diverse learners and a text for graduate level courses primarily in bilingual and ESL studies, composition studies, English education and literacy studies.

The Music Libel Against the Jews Ruth HaCohen, 2012-01-17. This deeply imaginative and wide ranging book shows how since the first centuries of the Christian era gentiles have associated Jews with noise. Ruth HaCohen focuses her study on a musical libel, a variation on the Passion story that recurs in various forms and cultures in which an innocent Christian boy is killed by a Jew in order to silence his harmonious musicality. In paying close attention to how and where this libel surfaces, HaCohen covers a wide swath of western cultural history showing how entrenched aesthetic theological assumptions have persistently defined European culture and its internal moral and political orientations. Ruth HaCohen combines in her comprehensive analysis the perspectives of musicology, literary criticism, philosophy, psychology and anthropology, tracing the tensions between Jewish noise and idealized Christian harmony and their artistic manifestations from the high Middle Ages through Nazi Germany and beyond. She concludes her book with a passionate and moving argument for humanizing contemporary soundspaces.
