Human Rights, Inc. Joseph R. Slaughter, 2009-08-25 In this timely study of the historical ideological and formal interdependencies of the novel and human rights Joseph Slaughter demonstrates that the twentieth century rise of world literature and international human rights law are related phenomena Slaughter argues that international law shares with the modern novel a particular conception of the human individual The Bildungsroman the novel of coming of age fills out this image offering a conceptual vocabulary a humanist social vision and a narrative grammar for what the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and early literary theorists both call the free and full development of the human personality Revising our received understanding of the relationship between law and literature Slaughter suggests that this narrative form has acted as a cultural surrogate for the weak executive authority of international law naturalizing the assumptions and conditions that make human rights appear commonsensical As a kind of novelistic correlative to human rights law the Bildungsroman has thus been doing some of the sociocultural work of enforcement that the law cannot do for itself This analysis of the cultural work of law and of the social work of literature challenges traditional Eurocentric histories of both international law and the dissemination of the novel Taking his point of departure in Goethe's Wilhelm Meister Slaughter focuses on recent postcolonial versions of the coming of age story to show how the promise of human rights becomes legible in narrative and how the novel and the law are complicit in contemporary projects of globalization in colonialism neoimperalism humanitarianism and the spread of multinational consumer capitalism Slaughter raises important practical and ethical questions that we must confront in advocating for human rights and reading world literature imperatives that today more than ever are intertwined An End of Troubles Hilary Coyne, Sierra Kaag, Harrison Voss, Harrison Hurst, C.T. Afropolitan vision of Africa's place in the world that they offer How does it differ from that of previous generations Why do some dissent Afropolitanism refuses to reinforce images of Africa in world media as merely poor war torn diseased and constantly falling into chaos By complicating the image of Africa as a hapless victim Afropolitanism focuses on the wide ranging influence Africa has on the world However some have characterized this kind of writing as light populist fare that panders to Western audiences Afropolitan Literature as World Literature examines the controversy surrounding Afropolitan literature in light of the unprecedented circulation of culture made possible by globalization and ultimately argues for expanding its geographic and temporal boundaries African Literatures in English Gareth Griffiths, 2014-09-19 Here is an introduction to the history of English writing from East and West Africa drawing on a range of texts from the slave diaspora to the post war upsurge in African English language and literature from these regions Of Chameleons and Gods Jack Mapanje, 1991 A volume of poetry written by a Malawi prisoner of conscience during his ten year imprisonment and the Textile Industry in Nigeria Elisha P Renne, 2020-11-23 This book draws upon thinking about the work of the dead in the context of deindustrialization specifically the decline of the textile industry in Kaduna Nigeria and its consequences for deceased workers families The author shows how the dead work in various ways for Christians and Muslims who worked in KTL mill in Kaduna not only for their families who still hope to receive termination remittances but also as connections to extended family members in other parts of Nigeria and as claims to land and houses in Kaduna Building upon their actions as a way of thinking about the ways that the dead work for the living the author focuses on three major themes The first considers the growth of the city of Kaduna as a colonial construct which as the capital of the Protectorate of Northern Nigeria was organized by neighborhoods by public cemeteries and by industrial areas The second theme examines the establishment of textile mills in the industrial area and new ways of thinking about work and labor organization time regimens and health particularly occupational ailments documented in mill clinic records The third theme discusses the consequences of KTL mill workers deaths for the lives of their widows and children This book will be of interest to scholars of African studies development studies anthropology of work and the history of industrialization The Introduction Chapter 2 and the Conclusion of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4 0 license available at http www taylorfrancis com books e 9781003058137 The Oxford History of the Novel in English Simon Gikandi, 2016-09-05 Why did the novel take such a long time to emerge in the colonial world And what cultural work did it come to perform in societies where subjects were not free and modes of social organization diverged from the European cultural centers where the novel gained its form and audience Answering these questions and more Volume 11 The Novel in Africa and the Caribbean since 1950 explores the institutions of cultural production that exerted influence in late colonialism from missionary schools and metropolitan publishers to universities and small presses How these structures provoke and respond to the literary trends and social peculiarities of Africa and the Caribbean impacts not only the writing and reading of novels in those regions but also has a transformative effect on the novel as a global phenomenon Together the volume s 32 contributing experts tell a story about the close relationship between the novel and the project of decolonization and explore the multiple ways in which novels enable readers to imagine communities beyond their own and thus made this form of literature a compelling catalyst for cultural transformation The authors show that even as the novel grows in Africa and the Caribbean as a mark of the elites mastery of European form it becomes the essential instrument for critiquing colonialism and for articulating the new horizons of cultural nationalism Within this historical context the volume examines works by authors such as Chinua Achebe Nadine Gordimer George Lamming Jamaica Kincaid V S Naipaul Zoe Wicomb J M Coetzee and many others
