Peter Brown, 2024-03-29 Central to the repertoire of Western art music since the 18th century the symphony has come to be regarded as one of the ultimate compositional challenges Surprisingly heretofore there has been no truly extensive broad based treatment of the genre and the best of the existing studies are now several decades old In this five volume series A Peter Brown explores the symphony from its 18th century beginnings to the end of the 20th century Synthesizing the enormous scholarly literature Brown presents up to date overviews of the status of research discusses any important former or remaining problems of attribution illuminates the style of specific works and their contexts and samples early writings on their reception The Symphonic Repertoire provides an unmatched compendium of knowledge for the student teacher performer and sophisticated amateur The series is being launched with two volumes on the Viennese symphony Volume IV The Second Golden Age of the Viennese Symphony Brahms Bruckner Dvorak Mahler and Selected Contemporaries Although during the mid 19th century the geographic center of the symphony in the Germanic territories moved west and north from Vienna to Leipzig during the last third of the century it returned to the old Austrian lands with the works of Brahms Bruckner Dvorak and Mahler After nearly a half century in hibernation the sleeping Viennese giant awoke to what some viewed as a reincarnation of Beethoven with the first hearing of Brahms's Symphony No 1 which was premiered at Vienna in December 1876 Even though Bruckner had composed some gigantic symphonies prior to Brahms's first contribution their full impact was not felt until the composer's complete texts became available after World War II Although Dvorak was often viewed as a nationalist composer in his symphonic writing his primary influences were Beethoven Schubert and Brahms For both Bruckner and Mahler the symphony constituted the heart of their output for Brahms and Dvorak it occupied a less central place Yet for all of them the key figure of the past remained Beethoven The symphonies of these four composers together with the works of Goldmark Zemlinsky Schoenberg Berg Smetana Fibich Jan cek and others are treated in Volume IV The Second Golden Age of the Viennese Symphony covering the period from roughly 1860 to 1930      Percussion Ensembles for Young Performers ,1968-06 Interchangeable three part ensembles May be used with the Basic Training Course beginning with Lesson 18      Catalogue of Music for Organ and Instruments James Laster,2005 This book presents music titles in which the organ is part of a chamber ensemble Alphabetized by composer entries contain the bibliographical information for each title and a brief commentary or description as well as information on the level of difficulty timing mood fingerings pedalings and other performance aids The selections are suitable for concerts and religious services and are written in a variety of styles from Baroque to contemporary This catalogue will be of interest to church organists searching for a piece for organ and brass appropriate for Easter visiting instrumentalists choosing music for a Sunday service teachers introducing their organ students to the experience of accompanying a violin and instrumentalists seeking a composition to play with the organ among many others BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved      The Encyclopedia of Film Composers Thomas S. Russia Musically Richard Taruskin, 2020-10-06 The world renowned musicologist Richard Taruskin devoted much of his career to helping listeners appreciate Russian and Soviet music in new and sometimes controversial ways Defining Russia Musically represents one of his landmark achievements here Taruskin uses music together with history and politics to illustrate the many ways in which Russian national identity has been constructed both from within Russia and from the Western perspective He contends that it is through music that the powerful myth of Russia's national character can best be understood Russian art music like Russia itself Taruskin writes has always been tinged or tainted with an air of alterity sensed exploited bemoaned revealed in traded on and defended against both from within and from without The author's goal is to explore this assumption of otherness in an all encompassing work that re creates the cultural contexts of the folksong anthologies of the 1700s the operas symphonies and ballets of the 1800s the modernist masterpieces of the 1900s and the hugely fraught but ambiguous products of the Soviet period Taruskin begins by showing how enlightened aristocrats reactionary romantics and the theorists and victims of totalitarianism have variously fashioned their vision of Russian society in musical terms He then examines how Russia as a whole shaped its identity in contrast to an East during the age of its imperialist expansion and in contrast to two different musical Wests Germany and Italy during the formative years of its national consciousness The final section focuses on four individual composers each characterized both as a self consciously Russian creator and as a European and each placed in perspective within a revealing hermeneutic scheme In the culminating chapters Chaikovsky and the Human Scriabin and the Superhuman Stravinsky and the Subhuman and Shostakovich and the Inhuman Taruskin offers especially thought provoking insights for example on Chaikovsky's status as the last great eighteenth century composer and on Stravinsky's espousal of formalism as a reactionary literally counterrevolutionary move
