The Postwar African American Novel Stephanie Brown,2011-03-14 Americans in the World War II era bought the novels of African American writers in unprecedented numbers But the names on the books lining shelves and filling barracks trunks were not the now familiar Richard Wright and Ralph Ellison but Frank Yerby Chester Himes William Gardner Smith and J Saunders Redding In this book Stephanie Brown recovers the work of these innovative novelists overturning conventional wisdom about the writers of the period and the trajectory of African American literary history She also questions the assumptions about the relations between race and genre that have obscured the importance of these once influential creators Wright s Native Son 1940 is typically considered to have inaugurated an era of social realism in African American literature And Ellison s Invisible Man 1952 has been cast as both a high mark of American modernism and the only worthy stopover on the way to the Black Arts Movement of the 1960s But readers in the late 1940s purchased enough copies of Yerby s historical romances to make him the best selling African American author of all time Critics meanwhile were taking note of the generic experiments of Redding Himes and Smith while the authors themselves questioned the obligation of black authors to write protest instead penning campus novels war novels and in Yerby s case costume dramas Their status as lesser lights is the product of retrospective bias Brown demonstrates and their novels established the period immediately following World War II as a pivotal moment in the history of the African American novel Literary Ambition and the African American Novel Michael Nowlin,2019-11-07 This book shows how African American literature emerged as a world recognized literature less as the product of a seamless tradition of writers signifying upon their ancestors and more the product of three generations of ambitious competitive individuals aiming to be the first great African American writer It charts a canon of fictional landmarks beginning with The House Behind the Cedars and culminating in the National Book Award Winner Invisible Man and tells the compelling stories of the careers of key African American writers including Charles Chesnutt James Weldon Johnson Jean Toomer Zora Neale Hurston Richard Wright and Ralph Ellison These writers worked within the white dominated commercial Eurocentric literary field to put African American literature on the world literary map while struggling to transcend the cultural expectations attached to their position as Negro authors Literary Ambition and the African American Novel tells as much about the novels that these writers could not publish as it does about their major achievements
