The Economics of High Inflation Paul Beckerman, 1991-11-13 This book describes the complex of economic processes which sustains inflationary pressure in nations with severe inflation problems Paul Beckerman uses an innovative approach to study the strategies inhabitants of economies with lengthy inflation experience use to maintain their purchasing power despite inflation He examines how these tactics function as feedback mechanisms economic processes by which inflation in any given time period generates inflationary pressure in subsequent periods and how they complicate the efforts of policy makers to achieve stabilization

Steal This Idea M. Perelman, 2016-09-27 This book describes how corporate powers have erected a rapacious system of intellectual property rights to confiscate the benefits of creativity in science and culture This legal system threatens to derail both economic and scientific progress while disrupting society and threatening personal freedom Perelman argues that the natural outcome of this system is a world of excessive litigation intrusive violations of privacy the destruction system of higher education interference with scientific research and a lopsided distribution of income

Nature Geerat Vermeij, 2009-02-09 From humans to hermit crabs to deep water plankton all living things compete for locally limiting resources This universal truth unites three bodies of thought economics evolution and history that have developed largely in mutual isolation Here Geerat Vermeij undertakes a groundbreaking and provocative exploration of the facts and theories of biology economics and geology to show how processes common to all economic systems competition cooperation adaptation and feedback govern evolution as surely as they do the human economy and how historical patterns in both human and nonhuman evolution follow from this principle Using a wealth of examples of evolutionary innovations Vermeij argues that evolution and economics are one Powerful consumers and producers exercise disproportionate controls on the characteristics activities and distribution of all life forms Competition driven demand by consumers when coupled with supply side conditions permitting economic growth leads to adaptation and escalation among organisms Although disruptions in production halt or reverse these processes temporarily they amplify escalation in the long run to produce trends in all economic systems toward greater power higher production rates and a wider reach for economic systems and their strongest members Despite our unprecedented power to shape our surroundings we humans are subject to all the economic principles and historical trends that emerged at life s origin more than 3 billion years ago Engagingly written brilliantly argued and sweeping in scope Nature An Economic History shows that the human institutions most likely to preserve opportunity and adaptability are after all built like successful living things     Princeton Alumni Weekly ,1981     Book Review Digest ,1982     Inter-American Economic Affairs Simon Gabriel Hanson,1983     The National Review ,1901
