Bewatna & other Novels , Cather Studies, Volume 12 Cather Studies,2020-01-01 Over the five decades of her writing career Willa Cather responded to and entered into dialogue with shifts in the terrain of American life These cultural encounters informed her work as much as the historical past in which much of her writing is based Cather was a multifaceted cultural critic immersing herself in the arts broadly defined theater and opera art narrative craft production Willa Cather and the Arts shows that Cather repeatedly engaged with multiple forms of art and that even when writing about the past she was often addressing contemporary questions The essays in this volume are informed by new modes of contextualization including the increasingly popular view of Cather as a pivotal or transitional figure working between and across very different cultural periods and by the recent publication of Cather s correspondence The collection begins by exploring the ways Cather encountered and represented high and low cultures including Cather's use of racialized vernacular in Sapphira and the Slave Girl. The next set of essays demonstrates how historical research often focusing on local features in Cather's fiction contributes to our understanding of American culture from musicological sources to the cultural development of Pittsburgh. The final trio of essays highlights current Cather scholarship including a food studies approach to O Pioneers and an examination of Cather's use of ancient philosophy in The Professor's House. Together the essays reassess Cather's lifelong encounter with and interpretation and reimagining of the arts.

Wounded Hearts Jennifer Travis, 2006-05-18 The literary study of emotion is part of an important revisionary movement among scholars eager to recast emotional politics for the twenty-first century. Looking beyond the traditional categories of sentiment, sensibility, and sympathy, Jennifer Travis suggests a new approach to reading emotionalism among men. She argues that the vocabulary of injury, with its evaluations of victimhood and its assessments of harm, has deeply influenced the cultural history of emotions. From the Civil War to the early twentieth century, Travis traces the history of male emotionalism in American discourse. She argues that injury became a comfortable vocabulary, particularly among white middle-class men, through which to articulate and to claim a range of emotional wounds. The debates about injury that flourished in the cultural arenas of medicine, psychology, and the law spilled over into the realm of fiction, as Travis demonstrates through readings of works by Stephen Crane, William Dean Howells, Willa Cather, Henry James, and Edith Wharton. Travis concludes by linking this history to twenty-first-century preoccupations with pain-centered politics, which she cautions too often focuses only on women and racial minorities.

Bad Land Pastoralism in Great Plains Fiction Matthew J. C. Cella, 2010-04-15 At the core of this nuanced book is the question that ecocritics have been debating for decades what is the relationship between aesthetics and activism between art and community By using a pastoral lens to examine ten fictional narratives that chronicle the dialogue between human culture and nonhuman nature on the Great Plains Matthew Cella explores literary treatments of a succession of abrupt cultural transitions from the Euroamerican conquest of the Indian wilderness in the nineteenth century to the Buffalo Commons phenomenon in the twentieth By charting the shifting meaning of land use and biocultural change in the region he posits this bad land the arid West as a crucible for the development of the human imagination Each chapter deals closely with two novels that chronicle the same crisis within the Plains community Cella highlights for example how Willa Cather reconciles her persistent romanticism with a growing disillusionment about the future of rural Nebraska how Tillie Olsen and Frederick Manfred approach the tragedy of the Dust Bowl with strikingly similar visions and how Annie Proulx and Thomas King use the return of the buffalo as the centerpiece of a revised mythology of the Plains as a palimpsest defined by layers of change and response By illuminating these fictional quests for wholeness on the Great Plains Cella leads us to understand the intricate interdependency of people and the places they inhabit Cella uses the term pastoralism in its broadest sense to mean a mode of thinking that probes the relationship between nature and culture a discourse concerned with human engagement material and nonmaterial with the nonhuman community In all ten novels discussed in this book pastoral experience the encounter with the Beautiful leads to a renewed understanding of the integral connection between human and nonhuman communities Propelling this tradition of bad land pastoralism are an underlying faith in the beauty of wholeness that comes from inhabiting a continuously changing biocultural landscape and a recognition of the inevitability of change The power of story and language to shape the direction of that change gives literary pastoralism the potential to support an alternative series of ideals based not on escape but on stewardship community continuity and commitment The Novels of Alex Miller Robert Dixon, 2020-07-16 One of Australia's most respected novelists Alex Miller's writing is both popular and critically well received He is twice winner of Australia's premier literary prize the Miles Franklin Award He has said that writing is his way of locating connections and his work is known for its deeply empathic engagement with relationships and cultures This collection explores his early and later works including Miller's best known novels The Ancestor Game Journey to the Stone Country Lovesong and Autumn Laing Contributors examine his intricately constructed plots his interest in the nature of home and migration the representation in his work of Australian history and culture and key recurring themes including art and Aboriginal issues Also included is a memoir illustrated by photographs from his personal collection in which Alex Miller reflects on his writing life With contributions from leading critics including Raimond Gaita Peter Pierce Ronald A Sharp Brenda Walker Elizabeth Webby and Geordie Williamson this collection is the first substantial critical analysis of Alex Miller's work It is an invaluable resource for anyone teaching and studying contemporary Australian literature

The Imaginative Claims of the Artist in Willa Cather's Fiction Demaree C. Peck, 1996 In this her first book scholar Demaree C Peck assigns Willa Cather her rightful place in our literary history Challenging the assumption that women writers must draw their inspiration from a lineage of female predecessors Peck portrays Willa Cather as a woman who self consciously set out to write within a male literary tradition that she identified as Emersonian Peck explores the psychological underpinnings of Cather's aesthetics to show that her theory of stylistic economy and simplicity was motivated by a desire to reorganize the elements of the artistic stage exclusively around her own romantic ego that inexplicable presence of the thing not named Although Cather's protagonists appear in various disguises clad as pioneers lawyers or priests they are all incarnations of the artist who appropriates people and places as parts of consciousness Cather's imaginative claimants seek to assimilate the world as a reflection of the self in the way that their prototype Emerson's poet landlord enjoys a figurative ownership of the landscape in reward for his integrating vision The novels offer a series of ingenious masquerades beneath whose plots lurk variations of a single story impelled by the artist's quest to take imaginative possession of the world in order to recover the dominion of her soul Unlike critics who have discussed Cather's novels as a series of discrete experiments Peck charts the pursuit for imaginative possession as a continuous theme thereby suggesting a coherence for Cather's art and career as a whole Offering original interpretations of eight of Cather's novels in the light of previously undiscussed letters and other biographical materials Peck explores the relation between Cather's life and art to suggest that she created her central characters as surrogates whose imaginative accumulations could compensate her for various dispossessing experiences in her own life Cather's novels operate according to the psychological laws of wish fulfillment While Cather's romanticism has its historical origin in American transcendentalism its psychological origin derives from the mythic domain of childhood Cather's kingdom of art sanctions the dream projected upon childhood of an original omnipotence that could cheat fate and remain unsoiled by experience Her novels enact a fantasy of return to primal wholeness Peck suggests that the novels serve a restorative function not only for their author but for Cather's readers as well Cather's fiction is significant Peck argues because it performs an important psychological work for its audience
